Brookline Graft Probe Reopened by Dewing

INDICTMENT OF 2 MORE EXPECTED

District Attorney Edmund R. Dewing suddenly reopened the Brookline graft investigation today—and reports followed that two more indictments may come out of the new investigation.

Already under indictment in connection with the probe are Sergeant Harry MacNeil and two other officers of the Brookline police department.

The other two expected to be indicted, according to the reports, are a town official and a member of the family of another official in Brookline.

This latter individual is declared to have been the "tipoff man" who gave warning to club spots that police were about to raid.

HOLDS CONFERENCE

District Attorney Dewing's announcement that he had reopened the inquiry came after he had held a conference of more than an hour in his office at Dedham courthouse.

At the conference were Assistant District Attorney Harold J. Smith, who conducted the original investigation; State Detectives Michael F. Fleming and Theodore W. Johnson, and Attorney George Stanley Harvey, counsel for Sergeant MacNeil.

After the session, the Norfolk county prosecutor said:

"Mr. Harvey has come to my office this morning at my invitation. He has discussed with me certain facts that have come to his attention regarding certain conditions in the town of Brookline.

HARVEY'S STATEMENT

"I have assured him I will investigate those facts and confer with him at a later date."

Attorney Harvey said:

"At the invitation of Mr. Dewing I conferred with him (the district attorney) at his office at Dedham this morning and have given him the facts which I had.

"It is my opinion that it will be handled in a proper fashion."

The sudden reopening of the graft probe, with Brookline's election coming next month, caused a new stir in the town.

It came only after Sergeant MacNeil had insisted that he be allowed to tell his story to the grand jury, waiving immunity. In this demand he has been supported by his counsel.

New Tunnel at Tech to Test 400-Mile Wind

Tech students majoring in aeronautical engineering will in the near future be testing aircraft models at 380 miles an hour and at substratosphere altitudes of nearly seven miles.

Not flying through the air, though, but in an aeronautical tunnel, the plans of which were announced today by Dr. Karl T. Compton, president of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Dr. Compton declared the new tunnel will be capable of developing wind velocities up to 400 miles an hour and simulating variations in atmospheric pressure to an altitude of 35,000 feet.

The tunnel will be named for the Wright brothers, pioneer airmen, and is expected to be built near the Guggenheim Aeronautical Laboratory.

Film Writer Killed On Bed Beside Wife

Palm Springs, Cal., Feb. 25 (AP)—Humphrey Pearson, widely-known film writer, was found shot to death in the bed of his desert cottage under circumstances so strange that the sheriff announced paraffin tests were made of the hands of both Pearson and his wife.

Powder marks, Sheriff Cary Rayburn explained, remain on the hands of a person firing a gun and usually are disclosed by a paraffin test. Expert examination of the tests has not been completed.

Deputy Sheriff W. W. Walrath said Mrs. Pearson, weeping and hysterical, was in the same bed when the tragedy was discovered. Pearson had been shot twice through the chest, the deputy said.

Police Chief Lloyd Boller of Palm Springs said Pearson and his wife had apparently been drinking, and that Mrs. Pearson has been unable to give a clear account of events preceding the shooting.

Mrs. Pearson was taken to a hospital in Riverside where a deputy sheriff was stationed in her room.

Chief Boller said a .38 calibre revolver was found in another room of the cottage.

Italians Capture, Kill Selassie's Son-in-Law

Addis Ababa, Feb. 25 (AP)—Ras Desta Demtu, son-in-law of Haile Selassie and last of the Ethiopian chieftains to dispute Italian occupation, has been captured and executed, an official communique announced today.

He was killed yesterday immediately after an Italian scouting party seized him in the mountain region west of the lakes stretching south of Addis Ababa.

The Fascist soldiers surprised the Ras with a few followers. There was a quick exchange of shots, then capture.

His death was interpreted by informed circles as marking the removal of the final vestiges of organized resistance to Italy's colonization of Haile Selassie's former domain.

Last Friday 3000 of Ras Desta's followers battled four Italian columns 70 miles south of Addis Ababa at the moment hand grenades were hurled at Marshal Rodolfo Graziani, viceroy of Ethiopia, in the capital.

60,000 Face Penalty in Security Tax Delay

More than 60,000 Massachusetts employers have failed to file their January Social Security tax returns which are due next Monday, Collector of Internal Revenue William M. Welch revealed today.

In a statement, Welch declared that there were approximately 86,000 employers in this state.

"With very few exceptions, everyone is obliged to file by law the S S-1 form," the statement read.

Employers, according to the statement, must file before 4:30 p. m., Monday, returns covering one per cent deductions from employes' wages and the employers' taxable payroll.

Welch stated that those who fail to file the returns on time will be subject to severe penalties, the nature of which he did not reveal.

15-Story Hospital, 188 Feet High, O.K.'d

The Massachusetts General Hospital will be allowed to erect a 15-story, 188-foot-high surgical building off Fruit street in the West End, the Boston Zoning Board announced today.

Exception to the law that no building shall be constructed in the West End more than 100 feet high was made with the explanation that the proposed hospital structure would be more than 150 feet from the nearest street.

Provision for a $2,000,000 George Robert White building for surgery was made in the will of the late Mrs. Harriet Bradbury of Boston, White's sister.

GEM RAID LAID TO KENNEDY BANDITS

Two Boston police detectives, at the request of Brookline authorities, joined today in the hunt for two supposed fugitive members of the Kennedy jewelry robbery gang who executed the new and daring gem holdup in Brookline.

Masked with handkerchiefs, the gangsters bound and gagged Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Kann, and a guest, Earl Wood, in the luxurious Egmont road apartment of the Kanns, escaping with more than $12,300 in cash, jewels, furs and checks.

It is believed Mrs. Kann and her expensive jewelry were "spotted" in Florida and trailed to Boston when she returned recently from the South.

DETECTIVES GET CLUES

Today Sergeant Arthur M. Tiernan and Detective John McGovern of Boston joined the hunt and spent more than an hour in the home of Kann, a wealthy Back Bay automobile dealer.

Fugitive members of the Kennedy gang were linked up with the case when it was learned that two of the outfit were in Florida while Mrs. Kann was in the South.

Two others of the gang, Joseph Belina and Samuel Linden, are now serving 15 to 20 years each in State Prison for the Kennedy robbery.

One of the fugitives sought, it was also learned, purchased an automobile through Kann in August, 1935.

BIND, GAG VICTIMS

Early today the two gunmen forced their way into the Kann apartment at pistol point after they had called Wood to the door by a ruse.

He thought they were the Kanns, returning from a boxing match at Mechanics Hall, Boston. They tied Wood up with strips

Brookline Woman's Own Story of Holdup

MRS. BENJAMIN KANN

Masked Thugs Seize Gems, Cash and Mink Coat

Mrs. Benjamin Kann's own story of the Brookline jewel robbery is presented herewith as she told it today to Francis P. "Tip" O'Neill, Boston Evening American night police reporter.

Never in my life have I experienced such a frightful sensation as I did when I walked into our apartment early today and was confronted by two burly holdup men.

We—my husband and I—had barely entered the reception hall when the lights flashed on and there we were staring into the muzzles of guns held by two masked men.

Of course I screamed at the top of my lungs. For my trouble I received four sharp blows, two on either side of my face. The last cut my lip rather badly.

One of the men then knocked me to the floor with a push. As I went down my $3700 diamond bracelet was knocked off my left wrist and disappeared under the piano. They missed that, thank goodness.

My husband and I had been to the fights at Mechanics Building and had garaged the car on Commonwealth avenue. I noticed that when Ben opened the door it responded rather easily.

Just as we got inside the men

LICENSING BOARD FACES SHAKEUP

Complete text of Timilty's report to the governor on 24 night clubs—See Page 2

In a sheaf of reports on police activity against all-night liquor selling clubs, Police Commissioner Joseph F. Timilty today "placed in the lap" of Governor Hurley the next move toward correction.

The move, close observers said, would be a shakeup in the Boston Licensing Board, members of which are appointed by the governor.

The Alcoholic Beverages Control Commission, state appointed, also came under fire in some of the reports.

Both boards have been at odds with Police Commissioner Timilty since the governor's order was issued to close night clubs where liquor was sold after legal hours.

Boston Licensing Board members are David T. Montague, chairman; Mary E. Driscoll and Edwin D. Gallagher, with Louis Epple, secretary.

Alcoholic Beverages Control Commission personnel includes William P. Hayes of Springfield, chairman; William E. Weeks of Everett and John P. Buckley of Charlestown board members; William H. Hearn of East Boston, secretary.

Thus far the police commissioner has been acceded the advantage in the wrangling, and today Governor Hurley had in his possession a long list of police charges that licenses were restored to certain clubs over bitter protests of the police department.

FALLON GIVES ORDERS

In the absence of his superior, Superintendent Edward W. Fallon called all division captains to headquarters and instructed them to go through their records for evidence of complaints made by police to the Licensing Board.

The information is wanted for tomorrow's hearing at police headquarters, to which members of the Licensing Board and the ABC have been invited.

It is charged by police that clubs with records of many liquor law violations were granted new licenses for 1937 in the face of police objections.

Over Commissioner Timilty's objection, it was learned, the following clubs were included in the list of clubs granted 1937 licenses:

Headline Club, Devonshire street.

Row Club, Newspaper row, declared by Captain Benjamin Wall of Milk street station to be "nothing else than a spot to drink liquor after hours."

Club Chesterfield, Staniford street, West End, an address declared by Captain Wall to be "no fit place to issue a club liquor license."

Club Eaton, Cambridge street, West End, complained of twice, according to police but the com-

Borah for New 14th Amendment

Washington, Feb. 25 (AP)—Sen. Borah (R., Ida.) introduced today a constitutional amendment to limit the due process clause of the 14th Amendment so as to permit states to handle social and economic problems within their own borders.

Borah's proposed amendment would repeal the 14th Amendment and re-write it to limit the due process clause to procedure, rather than substance, of laws.

He told newspapermen it would make constitutional the New York minimum wage law, which the Supreme Court held invalid last year.

23 CLUBS GIVEN O. K. BY BOARD

Of the 24 Boston night clubs granted liquor licenses, allegedly over police objections, 23 were approved for licenses by the Boston Licensing Board, it was declared today by Commissioner John P. Buckley of the State Alcoholic Beverages Control Commission.

The exception, Buckley said in answering charges made by Police Commissioner Timilty, was the Club Eaton in Cambridge street, West End.

"Revocation of the Club Eaton's license," he explained, "was recommended by the police back in October. The Boston board complied on October 13. On an appeal, the suspension was lifted November 28.

"On December 31 we did grant them a license for the following year, in belief that the two-month suspension was sufficient. There was no hearing on the matter."

Annuls Bridal Wife Proposed

Salem, Feb. 25—His wife really "popped the marriage question," Joseph Ouimette of Danvers testified in probate court here today in seeking an annulment from Josephine Jorchia Ouimette of Beberly on the grounds her divorce was not absolute when they were wed.

Stating that he knew his wife but six weeks before they eloped to Salem, N. H., Ouimette stated his wife told him:

"If you want to get married it's all right with me."

He explained to Judge Harry R. Dow that soon after their marriage on August 18, 1934, they "didn't intend to live together" since he discovered his wife's divorce was not absolute.

Ouimette said they had one child, Richard, one year old. After granting the annulment Judge Dow said a petition for adoption would be necessary by either the father or the mother concerning custody of the child.

TIMILTY REPORTS TO FORCE SHAKEUP IN LICENSE BOARD

plaints failing to impress the Licensing Board.

OTHERS NAMED

Club Monarch, Stuart street, Back Bay; now closed, however.

Club Vanity Fair, Newbury street, Back Bay.

Castle Square Social and Literary Club, Northampton street, South End.

Club Devkelder, Huntington avenue, Back Bay, declared by police to have had 12 liquor law violation complaints during 1936.

Against some of the clubs former Police Commissioner Eugene M. McSweeney is also recorded as having made complaints within a few weeks before leaving the police head's post.

He caused suspension of at least 10 night clubs.

Twenty-four night clubs are named by Police Commissioner Timilty in his report to Governor Hurley, submitted as alleged evidence that police recommendations were flaunted and objections ignored in granting liquor licenses and restoring those suspended.

From another angle—before a legislative committee at the State House—more shafts were directed at the night clubs.

Appearing before the legislative committee on taxation, State Tax Commissioner Henry F. Long urged a tax of 1½ per cent on the net sales of liquor in chartered clubs.

The commissioner disclosed that during prohibition many bootleg resorts, the largest of which did a business of $300,000 a year, were taxed by the state.

Admitting that an agreement with the speakeasy operators was not legal, the commissioner defended the prohibition days practice on the ground that the tax money was needed by the state.

LONGER HOURS SOUGHT

As the fate of the ABC and Boston Licensing Board members was being weighed today Boston night club, hotel and restaurant proprietors were understood to have begun organization to obtain extension of legal hours for selling and serving liquor.

Encouraged by Police Commissioner Timilty's open assertion that he favors elimination of the present 1 o'clock closing rule in downtown Boston, a powerful group of interests behind the city's swankier and better-conducted entertainment spots embarked on a concerted campaign for "getting rid of blue laws."

They will base their demands, they said, on Commissioner Timilty's view that working hours of many Boston persons make it hard for them to seek relaxation in the early evening.

While the night-spot owners were laying the groundwork of their organization today, state and city authorities were consolidating their gains and tightening the machinery of their newly-emphasized liquor law enforcement policy.

Regarded with greatest interest by groups viewing the night club situation from a political standpoint was Governor Hurley's new statement, declaring confidence in Police Commissioner Timilty and flatly denying that Timilty's ousting was in prospect.

Asked pointblank if it were true, as reported, that his action against late-closing Boston resorts, over Timilty's head, was forerunner of the police commissioner's dismissal, the governor answered:

"No, I wouldn't say that. The commissioner has been cooperating in every way. He has my cooperation, too, and he need not be disturbed about these reports.

"I want him to have these law-violating clubs cleaned up, and I know he will carry out these wishes.

"I told the commissioner that, if I were in his place, I would tell these new South End captains that they have been assigned to their posts for a definite purpose, namely, to correct a condition.

MUST SHOW RESULTS

"I'd place responsibility squarely on their shoulders.

"I'd tell them they'll have a reasonable time to show results, maybe a month or two. I'd give them full authority to pick their own subordinates, to make all the changes of personnel they think necessary.

"But I'd tell them, too, that they're on trial there. I'd tell them that, if they didn't do what was required, two other captains would be found who could and would.

"We'll get law enforcement. If we run out of captains, we'll start putting lieutenants in charge of divisions."

Stripper Girl Fails To Appear at Big Session

By CECIL B. DICKSON

Washington, Feb. 25 (US)—The American strip teaser must not be stripped of her fair chance to earn a living, the kings of burlesque pleaded at a hearing in the nation's Capitol.

The brothers Minsky, Herbert and Morton, said there was no strip teaser like an American strip teaser, and she should be protected against all foreign imitation.

The American realm of "Stars and Stripes Forever" must be kept safe for the home-grown wiggler, the New York brothers told the House immigration committee.

Invading foreign grand opera warblers, unable to crash the Metropolitan, are trying to muscle in on the good paying "strictly American art of disrobing with rhythm," the Minskys declared.

Purely American

Bert Minsky, doing the talking for the two, in support of Chairman Dickstein's bill to swap stage and screen artists on a reciprocal basis with foreign countries, said:

"The strip tease artists have to be taught to unstrip and unclothe in an atmosphere of lighting."

"They have to be taught rhythm in a manner synchronous with the music.

"We have found in 23 years of experience that strip-teasing is definitely an American art. It was inspired here and developed here, and we believe it should be kept American.

"We have plenty of Americans willing to act in our theaters. We have no need of foreign actors and actresses."

Dickstein asked:

"You don't want any competition in stripping?"

Minsky replied:

French Invasion

"We find no objection to admission of operatic stars. But when they get out of jobs, they come to burlesque. We feel if the gates should be lifted, American performers might get no work at all.

"There is an invasion of French girls now. They are at French casinos in New York, Miami and Los Angeles."

Minsky disappointed the committee and the crowd that overflowed the room when he said it had been impossible to bring Gypsy Rose Lee, star strip teaser, now a Broadway headliner.

Dickstein said he was sorry the "Minsky show did not include Gypsy as advertised," but that the title of today's show nevertheless remained:

"The stars and 'strips,' forever."

Star Gangsters

Representative Kramer (D), who represents the Hollywood district of California, asked:

"Haven't the burlesque shows been on the down grade because of vulgar shows?"

Minsky denied this emphatically and said burlesque consisted of dancing, comedy and strip teasing, a distinct and popular type of entertainment.

The committee was startled by charges of Anthony Pesci, American-born opera singer, who said gangsters terrorize the stars singing in the Metropolitan Opera House.

Pesci said critics had called him the "second Caruso" but that since he refused to "pay tribute to the Mafia gang of Milan, Italy, as did Gigli, Martinelli and others," he was prevented from getting a Metropolitan contract.

Shaking and scowling, Pesci, a New Yorker, said:

"A group of about 20 gangsters collect tribute from artists.

"I can give their names but I would rather withhold them because they have threatened my life."

No Show

Gypsy Rose Lee, said to be highest paid "strip tease" artist in America, who was to have appeared at hearing of House Immigration Committee looking to the exclusion of alien opera stars, but who failed to attend, much to the disappointment of committee members and others. She may, however, confer with that august group later.

Devotion Spoils Pet Dog's Record At School Class

Chappaqua, N. Y., Feb. 25 (AP)—Pal Downey, scholarly German shepherd dog, has spoiled his long record of perfect attendance at Horace Greeley School here, but it wasn't his fault.

His master, 15-year-old Billie Downey, was in bed with bronchitis and Pal spent the period of his truancy draped over the foot of the Downey couch.

"Pal started following me to school four or five years ago," Billie explained.

"Two years ago, when I was in the sixth grade, our teacher was Miss Helen Conboy, who liked Pal very much. So she gave him a regular place, and he's been coming to school ever since.

"We're in the eighth grade, now. Want to see Pal's last report card?"

The report card, headed "Pal Downey," and signed "Helen Conboy," listed these standings:

"Minds his master ....A
"Quiet in school ....A
"Is very neat ....A
"Friendly to people ....A
"Barks when he needs anything A
"Number of times absent ...None
"Number of times tardy ...None"

3d Husband Plan Of Marion Reed, Ex-Princess

New York, Feb. 25 (INS) — It won't be long now before Marion Snowden Reed, the former Princess Rospigliosi, takes unto herself a third husband, after shedding her second mate via the Reno route. She is the extranged wife of Louis Reed, Jr.

In fact, the 25-year-old daughter of wealth was on the point of leaving for the Nevada divorce mecca today, she confided to a reporter in her sumptuous Park avenue apartment, when:

"Something came up that changed my mind. So I cancelled my airline reservation."

"That means your next — and third — husband will be Brad Dresser?" she was asked.

At mention of Bradley Sherman Dresser, 22-year-old stepson of the late Col. H. H. Rogers, whose fabulous millions came from Standard Oil, she frowned slightly before she replied:

"I can't very well marry him, you know, before I'm divorced."

Marion eloped with Prince Girolamo (Jay) Rospigliosi in 1931.

WALLY Gets More GEMS

"BOYCOTT" PUT ON CORONATION

By DAVID P. SENTNER

Copyright, 1937, by International News Service

London, Feb. 25 (INS)—Furious over "undesirable pressure" brought to bear on Mrs. Wallis Simpson to make her return the immensely costly royal jewels he had given her when King, the Duke of Windsor has replaced them with gems of similar value, the magazine "The Week" said today.

This development was only one of a series undermining the glory of the coronation of King George May 12 and, according to "The Week," there is "considerable apprehension" in court circles as to whether the coronation crowd will be as big as hoped.

The Irish Free State today reaffirmed its boycott of the May event; it appeared certain that Italy would snub George; a boycott by followers of Mahatma M. K. Gandhi was believed back of postponement of the coronation Durbar in India; and the probability grew that George would be the only present or former king attending the coronation.

"Who'll Pay?"

"A further factor seriously perturbing those organizing the coronation is the fear that there may be open trouble between the present court party and the Duke of Windsor over the jewels presented by the Duke to Mrs. Simpson and now returned by her," said "The Week."

"It is this matter which is causing the present hurried journeys to Castle Enzesfeld. It is understood that the Duke considers that undesirable pressure was brought to bear on Mrs. Simpson to return the royal family jewels, which he contends were his personal property to dispose of as he liked. For this reason he replaced the jewels in question with others of similar value.

"As their cost was considerable, the question of who will pay for them may attain political importance."

Authoritative confirmation that Haile Selassie was invited as the reigning emperor of Ethiopia to send a representative to the coronation will certainly keep away a representative of the Italian royal family, it was believed.

Ex-King's Out

Irate over the bid to "Mr. Tafari," as the Italians call Haile Selassie, Premier Mussolini would consent to an Italian emissary to Westminster Abbey only on condition that Selassie attend as ex-Emperor, Roman advices said.

But the British government sent an invitation to the Ethiopian minister in London, asking him whether the "Emperor of Ethiopia" desired to be represented.

Since coronation invitations were sent only to reigning heads of nations who have envoys accredited to the Court of St. James, ex-King Alfonso of Spain, Prajhadipok of Siam, Ferdinand of Bulgaria, Wilhelm of Germany and others will not be invited.

Reigning heads do not attend coronations, but appoint special representatives, so it is unlikely that there will be any King or ex-King, save George himself, present on May 12.

Lord Brownlow Going To Confer With Edward

He will remain for two weeks with the former ruler for what was reported to be a lengthy discussion of Edward's prospective marriage and future plans.

Arline Judge Seeks Freedom in Reno

Hollywood, Feb. 25 (AP)—Arline Judge, the curvacious actress, was Reno-bound today to divorce director Wesley Ruggles.

Friends believe she then will marry Daniel Reed Topping, millionaire sportsman, who last week figured in an exchange of blows at a Hollywood night club.

Last week-end Miss Judge confirmed her engagement to Topping after he had exchanged blows in a Hollywood night club wiht Pat Di Cicco, actors' agent who once squired Miss Judge.

A property settlement, made before Ruggles went to an Idaho film "location" provides his payment of $1000 monthly for support of four-year-old Wesley, Jr. It will be submitted to the Reno court.

Miss Judge was a "kid" film player when she and Ruggles were wed in October, 1931. She gave her age as 19; he said he was 42. She temporarily retired from the screen to become a mother.

Guns Halt 100 Women Aiding Suicide Strike

Budapest, Hungary, Feb. 25 (INS)—One hundred grim-faced women today marched straight towards the muzzles of army machine guns in a vain effort to join their husbands and fathers in the second day of their "suicide strike" deep in the Five Churches coal mine near Pecs.

Refusing to halt in spite of the threat of machine-gun fire, the Amazons were finally repulsed by the fists and rifle butts of hundreds of soldiers.

As the strike neared its crisis, a third man died as a result of last night's furious battle when the soldiers repelled other miners' attempts to join the strikers.

HOLD WOMEN BACK

Murky waters, rising steadily since the striking 400 smashed the pumps, surged 50 feet overnight towards the 150-foot level where the half-starved miners, their lungs straining in the poisoned air, huddled in absolute blackness.

They could probably hear, echoed along the mine drifts, the screams of their womenfolk being held back at the pit-heads.

Twenty-four of the strikers were lying on stretchers, barely able to move a finger, according to information filtering from below. The lot of the others is rapidly growing worse. They have almost nothing to eat, except a few lumps of sugar, and they may be compelled to kill and eat the 14 pit horses they have in the shafts.

The miners demand an 80 per cent increase in their weekly wage of $3.60.

In an effort to persuade them "to listen to reason," the Socialist party sent in a message warning them they would be expelled from the party if they continued to strike.

"What do we care?" was their scornful retort. "We'll all be dead."

Earlier they had returned an appeal from the city magistrate without even deigning to open it.

Officials decided, as a drastic measure, not only to try and starve out the "stay-ins," but to try and force them to emerge to save their desperate families from a like fate.

Stores were ordered to sell for cash only. With the low wages of the miners, however, their sorrowing families have almost nothing with which to buy food.

4 Worcester Fires In House Rout 6

Worcester, Feb. 25—Six persons, including a 17-months-old infant, were driven out here today when four separate fires broke out in a three-story wooden dwelling on May street.

Separate blazes were discovered in the front hallway, an unoccupied room on the first floor and in two parts of the cellar. Deputy Fire Chief Fred S. Taylor said the fire had been deliberately set with newspapers. Damage was estimated at $2500.

Driven out of a basement apartment were Mr. and Mrs. Milton Moran and their daughter, Mary Ann, 17 months while from the third floor were Mr. and Mrs. William Chaylor and their son, William. The first and second floors were unoccupied.

Temperament?

"Without this, they couldn't be actors and actresses," said Director Clarence Brown today.

Brown, who has directed Garbo, Crawford and many other stars, explained:

"A star frequently will react to a seemingly unimportant thing which may interfere with a mood or train of thought.

"This same quality, however, is what makes the actor or actress great."

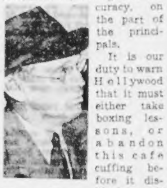
AS I SEE IT

By DAMON RUNYON

Copyright, 1937, by King Features Syndicate, Inc. International Copyright and all other rights reserved.

It is our impression that what they need in Hollywood, Cal., more than anything else right now, is a few good boxing instructors.

The fights that we read of as taking place in the restaurants of the cinema capital display an appalling lack of co-ordination, timing and accuracy, on the part of the principals.



Damon Runyon

It is our duty to warn Hollywood that it must either take boxing lessons, or abandon this cafe cuffing before it disillusions all of us cash customers of the screen.

We have been taught by the pictures to believe that when Mr. James Cagney, or Mr. Edward Arnold, or Mr. Edward Robinson, let go a left hook, it invariably hits the button, and knocks the recipient bow-legged. They never miss.

Of course the Messrs. Cagney, Arnold and Robinson would not engage in a cafe fight. But our point is, we accept their picture prowess as characteristic of Hollywood, and these restaurant riffles may eventually undermine our confidence.

Fight Fizzle

We have just finished reading a description of what one of the press associations terms "the latest Hollywood restaurant row." It sounds like all the others.

Two gentlemen who were at sword's points with each other stood up in a cafe and started throwing punches. Everybody knows that sword's points is not close enough for effective boxing. The fight was very bad.

A club-sandwich at a nearby table said the gentlemen reminded him of two old ladies fighting bees. A ham-and-egg in a far corner cried fake.

A manly roast-beef-medium got insulted because he thought the gentlemen were waving at him. A near-sighted, slightly deaf swiss-on-rye, was not aware that the fight was going on, but suddenly he sniffed loudly, and bawled:

"Here, waiter, you have made a mistake. You brought me limburger."

The management of the restaurant did not interfere with the fight.

They simply turned off the electricity and saved a little money by letting the breeze from the missed punches twirl the fans.

Avoids Tip

The fight ended when one of the gentlemen ran out of the joint. Perhaps he remembered:

"And by a prudent flight and cunning save
A life, which valour could not, from the grave.
A better buckler I can soon regain;
But who can get another life again?"

The hat check girl said she had been wondering from the moment the gentleman came in how he was going to avoid tipping her this time.

We do not know why the Hollywood gentlemen pick restaurants as their battleground. It may be because they know they are sure to always have a table in front of them.

In any event, they must sharpen up their restaurant fighting or seriously discredit the he-man business with us cash customers. We will commence doubting the superb marksmanship of the picture punchers if, in real life, they cannot hit a man with a buggy whip.

As a matter of fact, we think the art of restaurant fighting has sadly declined everywhere in this country. We never see any more of those rare set-tos such as that which took place in Mr. Jimmy Thompson's old Garden Cafe, at 50th street and Seventh avenue, between Mr. Freddy Welsh and Mr. Harry Pollock.

Courteous Foes

Mr. Welsh was then the lightweight champion of the whole world. A great boxer. A great fellow.

Mr. Pollock, as handsome and as dapper a gentleman as ever stepped in shoe leather, was Mr. Welsh's manager. They are both dead. Peace to their ashes.

They had some slight difference over their mutual affairs, and one evening undertook a settlement in a private booth in Mr. Thompson's cafe. They considerately drew the curtains of the booth before starting in.

They did not wish to disturb the singing of a young lady performer who was on the stage toying with "Mammy's Jubilee." Mr. Welsh and Mr. Pollock were the soul of courtesy.

We remember we had a nice post position at an old bullet hole in the curtains until Mr. Jimmy Thompson came along and pushed us aside. Mr. Thompson claimed, by right of seniority and proprietorship, the best view points at fights in his cafe.

We had to climb to the top of the booth partitions and join Mr. Danny Lyons, Mr. James J. Johnston and the other spectators who had already acquired seats up there. It was all right. Except that we could see only the gentleman who happened to be uppermost in the arena below.

Silent Scrap

Mr. Welsh and Mr. Pollock contended valiantly, but quietly. Their efforts were never heard above the sound of the customers' eating in the dining room off the booth. The young lady singer never missed a note. They were real gentlemen.

In the course of the contending, Mr. Pollock lost the lower lobe of one of his ears. He afterwards said he thought Mr. Welsh might have nibbled it off by mistake, thinking it was a finger.

Anyway, the segment of ear was rescued from the floor by Mr. Eddie Curley, the sports writer, dusted off and tenderly laid on a convenient radiator.

"We can get it sewed on Mr. Pollock later, and he will never notice," said Mr. Curley.

But when the discussion was over, and we went looking for the fragment, we found that an awkward accident had befallen. The heat was on in the radiator, and the piece of ear had been fried to a crisp.

Mr. Welsh and Mr. Pollock went away together, arm-in-arm, and Mr. Curley remained to hear from the rest of us a lecture on carelessness that he has remembered ever since.

WAGE AND HOUR LAW PLAN OF ROOSEVELT

Washington, Feb. 25 (AP)—Administration supporters predicted today the President soon would send wage and hour proposals to Congress.

The forecast followed delivery to the White House of the report of a committee of government experts who have been studying the problem.

James Roosevelt, the President's son and secretary, said he would coordinate the recommendations and give his father a final draft.

FOUR MAKE STUDY

Those who made the study were Benjamin V. Cohen and Thomas G. Corcoran, who have helped shape several major administration measures; John G. Winant, former chairman of the Social Security Board, and Robert H. Jackson, assistant attorney general.

Some administration officials expressed the belief the President would ask Congress to outlaw excessively low wages and long hours in a revision of the anti-trust laws.

Voluntary agreements among business men to ban unfair and wasteful trade practices also may be proposed, although it was emphasized the President has made no final decision on the form of legislation.

HOUR, WAGE BILL DRAWN

Secretary Perkins said Tuesday she had drafted a tentative wage and hour bill, which did not deal with fair trade practices.

"Our NRA experience showed they were separate," she said.

If industry agreements are proposed, officials said, they probably would aim at wiping out false advertising, unearned discounts and similar practices, although price-fixing would not be attempted.

Husband, Wife Die In Chair Tonight

Chicago, Feb. 25 (AP)—Five convicted murderers, including a husband and wife, watched their chances for reprieves fade today as they awaited death in the electric chair after midnight.

Minnie Mitchell, Negress, and another woman, Mildred Mary Bolten, slayer of her insurance broker husband, are among the doomed.

The others were Joseph Rappaport, convicted slayer of Max Dent; Rufo Swain, college-bred Negro convicted of slaying a young bride in her hotel room, and Allen Mitchell, husband of Minnie.

Mitchell and his wife were scheduled to die at Menard Prison and the others at Cook County (Chicago) jail.

"I don't expect any mercy," said Mrs. Bolton, who will be the first woman to be put to death in Cook county.

Nantucket Makes Threat to 'Secede'

Very grave, indeed, were members of the state public utilities commission today, as they pondered over protest of Nantucket citizens against allegedly excessive rates charged by the Nantucket Gas and Electric Company.

One ultimatum was the threat that Nantucket might secede from Massachusetts, seeking affiliation with New York state.

Said Representative William T. Swain of Nantucket:

"If we can't get some relief from the light and power rate situation, Nantucket folks say they'll include in the next town meeting warrant an article declaring the island no longer a part of the commonwealth."

'Love's Abductor' Kills Himself as Girl Flees Car

Emmett, Idaho, Feb. 25 (AP)—Sheriff Boise Riggs said today that Kenneth Crowther, 22, shot himself to death on a lonely country road a few minutes after the girl he seized at a church last night escaped from his car.

The girl, pretty Gynell Soom, 20-year-old choir member, heard the shot as she ran for help. She is Crowther's former sweetheart and was returned to her home here in a hysterical condition too distraught to be questioned.

Finding of the body in the automobile ended an all-night search in which nearly every adult in this southwestern Idaho town took part.

Crowther and the girl drove about 10 miles over snowy roads and stopped a quarter of a mile from a canal construction camp.

"If you don't marry me, I'll either kill you or kill myself," Crowther was quoted as telling the girl.

Miss Soom, frightened at the threat, struggled out of the car and ran toward the camp, the sheriff said. A short distance away she heard a shot. From the camp she led the men back to the automobile.

Screaming, the girl had been carried away last night while practicing a Sunday school program and placed in a roadster. Responding to the outcries, the townspeople raced to their cars and took up the chase.

Try Father in Gym For Chaining, Beating Child

Crockett, Cal., Feb. 25 (AP)—Hissed at many times by townspeople, David Locke was defended today at a trial in a gymnasium against a charge that he chained his motherless nine-year-old daughter to a bedstead with a dog collar and beat her.

The trial was moved to the gymnasium by Judge Ray Standish to accommodate the crowd, but he threatened today to exclude the public if it continues hissing.

The father contended he was attempting to break his daughter of "destructive" habits.

Locke is being tried before a jury of seven women and five men. Conviction would involve not more than six months in jail.

Judith Anderson says:
"Luckies never irritate my throat"

"A long successful run on Broadway is a 'run' on the actor's endurance, as well. Particularly it's a strain on our voices and throats. My present role in 'Hamlet' is a special strain because of the declamatory style of Shakespearian drama. Luckies were my choice when I began smoking . . . and today they are still my favorite cigarette. I enjoy their fine tobacco and I find my throat is much better off with a light smoke. Luckies never irritate my throat."

Judith Anderson

An independent survey was made recently among professional men and women—lawyers, doctors, lecturers, scientists, etc. Of those who said they smoke cigarettes, more than 87% stated they personally prefer a light smoke.

Miss Anderson verifies the wisdom of this preference, and so do other leading artists of the radio, stage, screen and opera. Their voices are their fortunes. That's why so many of them smoke Luckies. You, too, can have the throat protection of Luckies—a light smoke, free of certain harsh irritants removed by the exclusive process "It's Toasted". Luckies are gentle on the throat.

NEW TRIAL PLEA FOR TOWNSEND IS PLANNED

Washington, Feb. 25 (UP)—Dr. Francis E. Townsend, elderly pension crusader, was found guilty of contempt by a district court jury for walking out on a House committee investigating his plan of rewarding the aged.

Sentence was deferred. The maximum penalty is a year in prison and $1000 fine.

Dr. Townsend was convicted on a single count of a two-count indictment. The count charged him with refusing to attend committee sessions to which he had been subpoenaed.

JURY YOUTHFUL

Justice Peyton Gordon directed a verdict of not guilty on the remaining count, which accused the California physician of refusing to answer questions.

His counsel had raised the point that Dr. Townsend did answer all the questions asked him by the committee before he "took a walk."

The jury that convicted the advocate of $200-a-month pensions for persons over 60 had a decidedly youthful complexion. Only a few of its members were past middle age.

Townsend took the stand and denied he had flouted the House of Representatives.

Admitting he departed from the committee room abruptly after being subjected to lengthy interrogation, he added:

"No one tried to bring me back."

NEW TRIAL MOTION

Elisha Hanson, attorney for Townsend, planned to file a motion for a new trial, which probably will delay sentence a week or more.

If the motion is denied, an appeal is expected to be taken on the legal question of whether Townsend committed contempt in absenting himself from the committee.

John B. Kiefer, former Chicago manager for Old Age Revolving Pensions, Ltd., called as a government witness, testified Dr. Townsend's "walk out" was discussed in advance by the directors and considered "a masterpiece of strategy."

Dr. Townsend denied knowledge of such a strategy.

DANCE DEPICTS SURREALISM

Boston's semi "June in January" weather was appropriately symbolized at a surrealist costume dance, sponsored by the junior parish of the First Parish Church in Cambridge, when Miss Ruth Page of Belmont, arrived wearing old-fashioned white knit underwear and a sprig of apple blossoms in her hair.

Election memories were revived by Miss Nancy Hayes, of Cambridge, and David Claghorn, of Milton, who explained their black cambric gowns as representing Maine and Vermont in mourning for the late Republican cause.

Winning costume was provided by Miss Mary Sharples who created a sensation with her "dress" of bath towels fastened with safety pins and decorated with hot water bottles.

Officials at the Bombay Airport said they could not disclose future plans of the flying couple, but intimated the Lindberghs would take off for Calcutta tomorrow.

Witch Fear Theory In Death of Woman

Los Angeles, Feb. 25 (AP)—Fear of a witch was the weird theory evolved today in a sheriff's investigation of the slaying of Mrs. Natalia Garcia Lopez, 38.

Her husband, Simon Lopez, reported to police a Mexican neighbor accused Mrs. Lopez of witchcraft. The Mexican asserted a friend told him he could never recover from a current illness until he had broken the evil spell. Officers began a search for the neighbor.

HAPPY RELIEF FROM PAINFUL BACKACHE

Caused by Tired Kidneys

Many of those gnawing, nagging, painful backaches people blame on colds or strains are often caused by tired kidneys—and may be relieved when treated in the right way.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, lumbago, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

CLAIM FLORIDA CONTROLS DOG LAWS HERE

Charges that Massachusetts' dog track laws were dictated by Florida interests, that before legislation was even enacted here it was "in the bag," and that the Massachusetts racing commission is neither "fair, honest nor open-minded" were made today.

These allegations came at a stormy meeting in Gardiner Auditorium at the State at a hearing before the legislative committee on legal affairs. More than 400 persons packed the room, with six state troopers on guard.

State Senator Thomas M. Burke of Boston charged that a meeting had been held in a Providence hotel before dog-track rules were drawn up in this state and that the "dictators" at this meeting now own dog-racing "lock, stock and barrell."

ADMITS MEETING

Attorney Frank Farrol, counsel for the National Greyhound Association, conceding none of the charges, nevertheless admitted the meeting took place.

Q (By Burke)—Do you know who was there?

A—A member of the Massachusetts Racing Commision was there with the racing commissioner of Florida and officials of the International Greyhound Association.

Q—Did I hear you say that the racing commision in Massachusetts was not open-minded in dealing with dog race legislation?

A—You did.

Q—Then you do not think the racing commission is fair, honest and open-minded in dealing with these questions?

A—No. I do not.

Attorney Farrol was asked if he thought that the Revere dog-track was given "greater latitude" than others. He said he did not, but that he though the one of Taunton got greater latitude.

KELLY HITS "TAKE"

Senator Burke pressed the question as to whether or not the interests at the meeting mentioned "wrapped up everything" and "put it in the bag" so far as Massachusetts was concerned.

"I think what you are driving at can be proved another way," was Farrol's retort.

Prior to this, Lieutenant-Governor Francis E. Kelly made his first public appearance since his wedding on February 9, to denounce the "unfairness" of the present state "take" at dog tracks.

At the same time the lieutenant-governor shattered a precedent in appearing personally before a legislative committee to urge his own bill.

His measure would cut the dog track "take" from 11½ to 4 per cent and would increase the state "take" from 3½ to 11 per cent.

"So long as the people of Massachusetts favor horse and dog racing, I am in favor of it," he declared. "But the people need protection.

"The present percentage of the state's 'take' is unfair. There are only two winners at dog-tracks.

ONE IS RABBIT

"One is the operator — the heavy financial winner. The other is an artificial rabbit that half-starved dogs chase but never catch!"

Kelly said that he had no personal objections against racing, but that he strongly objected to "outsiders" taking so much of the people's money out of Massachusetts.

Former Representative Michael J. Ward of Brighton strongly urged that the Kelly bill be reported, but added:

"If I had my way, I'd give the dog track owners 1 per cent and the state 11 per cent. The track at Revere could pay off the state debt if they wanted to—the way things are run there."

Representative James P. Donnelly of Lawrence also appeared before the committee to urge another measure under consideration which would limit the number of races on a day or night card.

BOARD BRANDED JOKE

"The betting public hasn't a chance to win," he said. "The Massachusetts Racing Commission is nothing but a joke and racing in this state is legalized larceny."

Donnelly's bill would reduce the number of dog track races on any day or night from 10 to 7, and horse track cards from 8 to 6 races.

"Racing is a detriment and a curse to both the people and to business," he concluded.

One of the committee then asked Donnelly if it were not true that he himself had been employed at a race-track once.

ACCEPTED "TO FOOL THEM"

"They offered me a job thinking I wouldn't take it," was the retort. "I fooled them. That's why I know so much about it."

Attorney Robert E. Bottomly appeared as counsel for the dog-track interests, speaking briefly.

Leland C. Bickford, a radio commentator, then rose and placed himself on record as favoring these bills, promising "startling disclosure" to the committee when the calendar called for another proposal to investigate dog racing in the state.

Bickford told reporters afterwards that he had received a number of threats over the telephone from persons unknown as a result of his activities for such an investigation.

"I was forced to send my wife and two small children out of the state for safety," he said. "I have also asked and received police protection for myself."

Highlights at Hearing on Racing Before Legislative Board

PHILLIP CHAPMAN ATTY. ROBERT E. BOTTOMLEY

Scores of representatives of horse and dog tracks of Massachusetts were present at hearing on bill at the State House that would increase the state "take" and decrease the track "take." Attorney Robert E. Bottomley, right, represented Wonderland Park, the Revere dog track. Phillip Chapman, left, looked after interests of Springfield dog track.

ATTY. CONRAD CROOKER

Attorney Conrad Crooker was one of the spellbinders of the hearing. He favored the bill proposed by Lieutenant-Governor Kelly to cut dog track take from 11½ to 4 per cent and increase the state "take" from 3½ to 11 per cent. Boston Evening American Photos.

LT.-GOV. KELLY

In speaking on his own bill, Lieutenant-Governor Kelly said that the only two winners at dog tracks were the artificial rabbit—that dogs chase and seldom catch and the operator—the heavy financial winner.

CHARLES F. ADAMS ATTY. ABE CASSON

Charles F. Adams, of the Suffolk Downs race track, in conversation with his attorney, Abe Casson, as the race problems of the state were discussed. The Representative James P. Donnelly bill, to limit number of races each day would reduce the number of horse races daily from 8 to 6. Adams heard racing charged with being a detriment to both people and business.

Six Rescued in Series Of Fires; Many Routed

Six persons were rescued and eight others were routed as fires broke out today in East Milton, Jamaica Plain, Roxbury and Somerville.

The Somerville blaze occurred in the basement of the high school on Highland avenue while 3450 students, fortunately, were on vacation. Damage was estimated at $4000.

Following engines from East Milton square to a burning two-family house in Bassett street, East Milton, William Ohrenberger of Blue Hill avenue, Dorchester, groped through the flames and smoke and carried his niece and nephew, Betty, 8, and Richard Ohrenberger, 10, to safety.

CARRIED DOWN LADDER

Mrs. Frank Ohrenberger, mother of the two children, was helped to the street by John Laffin of Eliot street, Milton, and John Campbell of Gallivan boulevard, Dorchester, who had accompanied Ohrenberger.

Miss Helen Burns, 22, an employe of Mrs. Ohrenberger, was carried down a ladder by firemen from the second floor.

Patrolman Joseph Slack, who discovered the $1500 blaze, broke down a rear door and rescued Miss Catherine McKenna and Miss Jeanette Wilson from the first floor.

Eight persons were forced out in their night-clothing at Chestnut avenue, Jamaica Plain, when a defective chimney caused a fire with $1000 damage. Those fleeing were the families of John Conway and John Kelly.

A fire which police said was of suspicious origin and caused $800 damage broke out in the first-floor apartment at 700 Columbus avenue, Roxbury.

WIRING BLAMED

In the Somerville high school blaze, discovered by a passerby who heard the sprinkler alarm outside the building and then sprinted 300 yards to the Central fire station, flames worked up to the second floor from a basement room used to store scenery.

Defective wiring was given as the cause.

Allston Stores Swept By Fire After Blast

Flames swept three stores and smoke and water damaged six others in a block at Cambridge street and Harvard avenue, Allston, today.

Firemen had to use gas-masks in fighting the blaze, while 25 employes fled the various shops. Damage was estimated at about $8000.

Traffic on both Harvard avenue and Cambridge street, heavily-traveled arteries, was tied up for more than an hour.

The fire started from an undetermined cause in the Samson Tire Shop after an explosion. It spread to the Clark & Tate Insurance Agency on one side and to the Arco Equipment Company on the other. The Thax Food Shop suffered heavy smoke damage.

U. S. Buys 5 Big Planes

Washington, Feb. 25 (AP)—The War Department announced today purchase of five large amphibian airplanes and spare parts from the Sikorski aircraft division of the United Aircraft Corporation, Bridgeport, Ct. The cost was $633,898.

$10,000 for Hair Wave Burns Asked

Chargng that her scalp was burned in three places while receiving a permanent wave, Mrs. Avis Fellows, 29, of Russell street, Everett, sought $10,000 from Conrad & Company today in Suffolk court before Judge Edward T. Broadhurst and a jury.

Mrs. Fellows is employed by Attorney James Sullivan of Lynn, a member of the State board of bar examiners.

Judge Leo Doherty, counsel for Mrs. Fellows, read the declaration which states that Mrs. Fellows went into the store for a permanent wave and told the atendant her hair was dry.

The declaration further states that the atendant said to Mrs. Fellows "We have just the machine for that." It also states that Mrs. Fellows scalp was burned in three places and that she was left under a dryer for 35 minutes while the attendant and another went to lunch.

The burns were sustained in June, 1933, according to the declaration.

2 Dive Into Harbor Fleeing From 'Cop'

Two East Boston youths required treatment at East Boston Relief Hospital for immersion today after they had tried to escape from Patrolman James Galvin by leaping into the harbor and swimming away.

Galvin had been sent to McDonald's wharf, Jerries Point, on a telephone complaint that the youths were shooting at tin cans with rifles, and it was feared they might hit some passerby. They fled when he approached.

They gave their names as Dominic Carangio, 19, of 512 Sumner street, and Joseph Pelusi, 17, of 551 Sumner street, East Boston.

INCOME TAX BOOM SEEN

Washington, Feb. 25 (INS)—Treasury cash registers tinkled the tune of boom-time business today as first quarterly income tax returns poured into the nation's 63 collection districts.

Although March 15 is the deadline for 1936 income reports, the volume of early payments led officials to believe more than 6,000,000 returns will be filed this year.

For the first 20 days of this month revenue from income taxes amounted to $43,000,000, or $13,000,000 more than was collected during the corresponding period in 1935. This month's daily collections are averaging $650,000 better than last February.

In his budget message, President Roosevelt forecast a yield of $2,372,000,000 from individual and corporation income levies during the current fiscal year.

Archbishop Named By Pope for Mexico

Vatican City, Feb. 25 (AP)—Pope Pius today named Bishop Luigi Martinez, now first coadjutor bishop at Morelia, Mexico, to be archbishop at Mexico City.

Prelates said the nomination of Bishop Martinez was a "normal procedure" as the office was vacant through the death of Archbishop Pascual Diaz.

Seek Lower Wire Rates

Shanghai, Feb. 25 (AP)—The American Chamber of Commerce in Shanghai began a campaign today for lower telegraph rates between the United States and the Far East.

Waxey Gordon Gang Linked To Union Leader's Slaying

New York, Feb. 25 (AP)—The World-Telegram today said it had learned investigators believe Norman Redwood, slain union leader, was shot down at his Teaneck, N. J., home by survivors of the Waxey Gordon beer mob, once powerful in North Jersey.

The World-Telegram said a good line on the actual killers had been obtained and that it was informed by a responsible authority that a union man will be arrested soon as the power behind the killing.

The newspaper said records produced by Thomas E. Dewey, special rackets prosecutor for New York County, and Police Commissioner Lewis J. Valentine have linked the killing with a union-political racketeering alliance which came into being during the prohibition era.

LINKED TO OLD PROBE

The records, now in the hands of Prosecutor Breslin of Bergin County, N. J., the World-Telegram said, are understood to date back as far as 1932, when Dewey, as chief assistant U. S. attorney, smashed the Waxey Gordon beer syndicate and sent Gordon to Atlanta federal penitentiary for income tax evasion.

The information is said to show a motive for the Redwood killing that traces back to 1933 when federal agents seized "inside bookkeeping ledgers" of the Gordon mob in New Jersey and it links with Dewey's more recent investigation of labor racketeering.

LABOR MEN IN CONFERENCE

Breslin at Hackensack, the World-Telegram said, denied that he had any immediate plans for an arrest.

Two international officials of Redwood's "sandhog" union conferred here today with New York and New Jersey authorities attempting to solve the slaying.

The union men were Joseph Moreschi of Quincy, Mass., and James Bove, president and business agent, respectively, of the International Hod Carriers and Building Workers Union, of which Redwood's union was a part.

J. P. Morgan Yacht Flees Hurricane

Suva, Fiji Islands, Feb 25 (INS)—Eleven guests aboard the J. P. Morgan yacht, Corsair, were safe in port today after barely missing a terrific South Sea Island hurricane.

The yacht raced into port ahead of the storm which struck with full force at Nakuka between Haapai and Nukualofa.

HOTEL VISITS REVEALED IN COTE TRIAL

First-hand revelations concerning Boston's party girls bared names of prominent families in Suffolk court today, with Miss Italia "Roxie" Dell Rocco the star witness.

Miss Dell Rocco, state witness and self-admitted party girl, read from little yellow memorandum slips as she named men she had entertained in downtown hotels.

A portion of the money she received, according to her testimony, she gave to Miss Irene Bostwick, alias Dr. Renee Cole, who, with Walter D. Simmons, is on trial charged with deriving support from women.

TELLS OF MEMORANDUMS

She testified that the first initial on her memorandum slips represented the name of her employer, the second column contained her own initial or that of any other girl who accompanied her to a hotel and the third column initials those of the man or men who accompanied her.

She testified that the figure in another column represented the amount of money she collected and that the figures in still another column what she kept and what she gave to her employer.

In some instances, she explained, the name of the man or men in the hotel parties were written out in full. This, she testified, was so in the case of the young scion of a prominent Boston family.

She testified that the figure "2" against the two names meant that there were two men in the party and that the figure "9" meant that she received $9.

The witness further explained that the notations "$9-$2" meant she kept $9 for herself and gave $2 to the employer.

REVEALS PAYMENTS

"Did you give the defendants some money to compensate them?" Miss Rocco was asked.

"I have given Miss Cote some money, but I wouldn't say it was to compensate her," replied the "party girl."

"Well, your only means of livelihood from April to November of last year was entertaining men, wasn't it?"

"Yes," she replied.

"And you have given the female defendant money?"

"Yes," was the rejoinder.

"At the time you left money at 215 Commonwealth avenue that was for both defendants, wasn't it?"

"No," she replied.

"Do you mean that?"

"Yes, I left it with Miss Cote. I don't know what she did with it."

Miss Rocco was shown a transcript of Police Captain Tiernan's questions and her answers. In response to a question she said the transcript refreshed her recollection.

"Now, did you give both defendants some of your earnings?"

"Yes."

"Well, the contributions you made went to them jointly, didn't they?"

"Yes."

IDENTIFIES LETTER

Miss Rocco identified a letter she wrote to Simmons on February 11, 1936 in which she included the sentence:

"If you don't keep away from the girls I'll murder you."

In another she wrote:

"I am learning to be a bigger and better gold-digger."

In a third one she begged him to go to New York and join her. She testified she had gone to New York from Boston two days prior to writing the letter and was accompanied by Miss Cote, who paid her fare.

Child Court Foe Speaks

District Attorney William J. Foley registered his opposition to proposed establishment of a juvenile court for all of Suffolk County, at hearing at the State House. He expressed his satisfaction with the court now handling children's cases.

The protection of children as they are tried for law infractions was explained by District Attorney Foley. He said a special backroom is provided for trial of these cases and that the children are kept away from criminal court atmosphere.

Silent Shaves

New London, Wis., Feb. 25 (AP)—Bernard Knapp, Clintonville barber, won't be able to indulge in shop talk for some time and he regrets it. He fell and broke his jaw while skating.

"It's tough to be laid up," Knapp scribbled in a note after his jaw was wired together, "but to think I can't talk for six weeks is too much."

LOVE QUARREL REVEALED IN GIRL'S TRIAL

Dover, N. H., Feb. 25 (AP)—Sheriff Stephen W. Scruton testified today that Catherine MacKinnon, 26, of Boston, on trial for alleged participation in a $10,000 robbery, told him she had come to Rochester the day the crime was committed to patch up a quarrel her sister had with a payroll guard.

Miss MacKinnon was arrested shortly after the holdup and accused by police of attempting to block, with her car, pursuit of two bandits.

Scruton, under cross-examination by Everett Galloway, chief of defense counsel, admitted the girl had told him she drove up from Boston because her sister, Ethel, had threatened to commit suicide over a quarrel with James E. Wightman. Wightman was guarding the factory payroll when the holdup was committed.

Miss MacKinnon told him, Scruton said, that she had waited near the factory hoping to see Wightman and that she was driving away when arrested.

The sheriff testified also that Wightman corroborated what Miss MacKinnon had told him.

Two men indicted with Miss MacKinnon have not been apprehended.

FOLEY BATTLES COURT BILL

Strongly opposing a bill fostered by allied children's agencies to establish a juvenile court for Suffolk County, District Attorney William J. Foley of Suffolk County insisted today that the court would demand "an army of probation officers and an army of psychiatrists."

He opposed the bill on the grounds that the change in procedure was unnecessary and that he was "perfectly satisfied" with the present method used in children cases.

Judge Albert F. Hayden of Roxbury court voiced his protest to the bill in a letter to the Massachusetts Child Council, which is supporting the bill.

He denied there was a hit-and-miss procedure in his court and declared the 50 or 75 cases coming up in the weekly Thursday half-day sessions could be handled adequately.

JUDGE HURLEY FETE SATURDAY

John J. Burns, former Securities Exchange Commission head and a former Superior Court judge, along with United States Senators Joseph C. O'Mahoney of Wyoming and Dennis Chavez of New Mexico, have been invited to address the testimonial dinner to be given Saturday night by the Georgetown Club of Massachusetts to Judge Joseph L. Hurley of the Superior Court.

Judge Hurley, former Lieutenant-Governor, is a graduate of the Georgetown University Law School. His fellow alumni, headed by Attorney Thomas A. Flannagan, general chairman, will pay tribute to him at the Hotel Westminster.

Frank J. Murray, a Boston attorney and president of the Georgetown Club of Massachusetts, will act as toastmaster.

Slain in Gun Battle

Winnipeg, Feb. 25 (Canadian Press)—A man identified by police as William May, former convict, was shot to death today in a gun battle with two constables. Leonard (Curly) Knight, companion of the dead man, was taken into custody later.

9 HOLD COURT PARLEY WITH ROOSEVELT

Washington, Feb. 25 (INS)—Resuming his drive for Congressional support, President Roosevelt today called nine liberal members of the House into conference on his judicial reform program.

The meeting was the second of a series which eventually will embrace the bulk of the House membership.

Earlier in the day, the President discussed his judiciary reform with Senator Hughes, (D.) Delaware.

In today's group were eight Democrats and one Farmer-Laborite. They were Lewis of Maryland, Martin of Colorado, Hill of Washington, Ramsay of West Virginia, Voorhis of California, Hancock of North Carolina, Maverick of Texas and Ford, California, Democrats, and Teigan, Minnesota, Farmer-Laborite.

"SLIP" PROBE URGED

Advocates of Mr. Roosevelt's judicial reforms suggested a congressional inquiry into the origin of a flood of pink, green and blue slips calling on Congress to keep "hands off the Supreme Court."

While 34 Senators have publicly opposed the plan to enlarge the Supreme Court and 28 have publicly endorsed it, Senators Clark (D) Missouri, and Burke (D), Nebraska, today claimed 42 Senators now stand ready to vote against the President's plan.

"If the bill came to a vote today it would be defeated by 10 votes," was Clark's most optimistic prediction.

The private list of the opposition concedes only 20 "sure" votes for the proposal.

PRESIDENT IS TOLD

Thousands of the colored slips, signed apparently by constituents, have been received by members of Congress since the battle over the President's program began. They have been mailed chiefly from points in the Middle West but from an area scattered from Pennsylvania to Nebraska. They read:

"Hands off the Supreme Court.

"Dear sir: Believing that the proposal to revise and weaken the Supreme Court would prepare the way to dictatorship in our country, I earnestly urge you to use your influence against the measure."

Chairman O'Connor (D.), New York, of the House rules committee, revealed Representative Nichols (D.), Oklahoma, was collecting the slips preparatory to asking an inquiry into their origin. He also disclosed the matter had been called to President Roosevelt's attention.

Foes of the President's plan laughed at indications the slips were making any impression on Congress. Senators Johnson (R.), California, and Van Nuys (D.), Indiana, declared the slips failed to make any showing in the tens of thousands mailed to Congress.

12,000 WRITE JOHNSON

"I have received a handful of these slips," said Johnson, "among 12,000 letters on the issue. Fully 90 per cent of my mail voices protests against the proposal to pack the court."

Other House members denied the slips represented propaganda. Representative Edith Nourse Rogers (R.), Massachusetts, said:

"I have found no evidence of organized propaganda in the very heavy mail I am receiving in protest against the President's plan. I do not think a few printed slips is at all indicative of the situation, because the protests are general and voluntary."

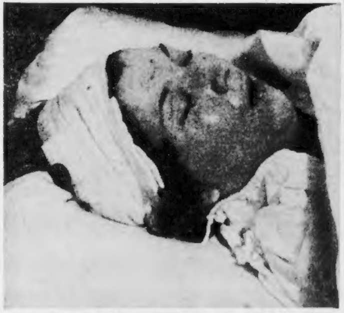
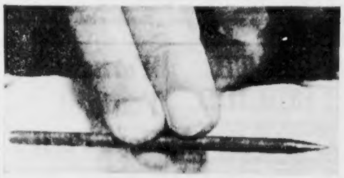
Strange Suicide Attempt Succeeds



Dema Dunlap Pictured Unconscious in Hospital



4-Inch Spike Driven Into Skull

Berkeley, Cal., Feb. 25 (AP)—Miss Dema Dunlap, 22, who drove a four-inch nail into her head in an attempt to commit suicide, died today.

Dr. Eric Kosterlitz, who removed the spike Tuesday, said the nail had been shoved through a hole in the skull left from a previous operation.

Dr. Kosterlitz said that before losing consciousness Miss Dunlap related she had thrust the nail into her head Sunday night, then gone to bed to await death.

She awoke the next morning suffering from a severe headache and was taken to a hospital.

Mine Head Killed By Mexico Bandits

Mexico City, Feb. 25 (INS)—J. B. Sturtivant, superintendent of the "El Trigo" mine at Sahuaripa, Sonora, was killed today by 25 bandits, who waylaid him and riddled his body with bullets after robbing him of 3000 pesos. He had been carrying a payroll.

Federal authorities sent troops in pursuit of the bandits. Sturtivant was believed to have been a graduate of Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

The personnel office of Massachusetts Institute of Technology said today they had no record of any J. B. Sturtivant on the graduate list.

LONDON SEES DELAY IN SPAIN BLOCKADE

By Associated Press

Delay in effecting a neutrality blockade of the Spanish civil war was forecast at London today.

In Spain, severe fighting raged from the Madrid front, especially in the Jarama river sector, to the torn city of Oviedo near the Bay of Biscay.

French objections to details of a land patrol and Russia's objections to her part of a sea patrol complicated the picture as six powers gathered for a neutrality sub-committee meeting in London.

BLOCKADE DELAY

An "act of God" shelling of the British warship Royal Oak off Valencia Tuesday presented the possibility of other such incidents when the powers begin to patrol Spain to keep foreign men and arms out.

Although a full blockade was believed impossible by the deadline—March 6—some hope was expressed a modified plan could be effected by then, gradually increasing it to fulfill the entire agreement.

DEATH TOLL 2500

Government troops fought to gain the heights of Pinzarron Hill, dominating the road from Madrid to Valencia. Madrid officials set insurgent dead in one phase of the battle for the hill at 2500.

Basque attackers of insurgent-held Oviedo, "Second Alcazar" of the war, reported they stormed the heights dominating Naranco Hill, last insurgent redoubt on the city's outer rim.

Hand-to-hand fighting raged within the city itself. Government officers said occupation of a road to Grado, 12 miles west of Oviedo, had blocked supplies for the besieged insurgents.

Black Widow Bite Blamed in Death of Guy Standing

Hollywood, Feb. 25 (INS)—An autopsy will be held today over the body of Sir Guy Standing, 63, noted English actor, Coroner Frank Nance announced.

The elderly former World War hero toppled over dead in an automobile salesroom yesterday. Bite of a black widow spider two years ago was given today as a contributing cause of the death, but the coroner said the autopsy would be held to determine the cause definitely.

The poison was believed to have affected his heart, which failed yesterday while he chatted with the cashier at a garage.

"I never felt better in my life," Sir Guy remarked a second before he fell to the floor.

The spider bit Sir Guy while "Lives of a Bengal Lancer," in which he appeared as an iron-nerved army officer, was being filmed.

BOAT STRIKERS' PICKET LINES DIVIDED

Groton, Ct., Feb. 25 (AP)—State police forced strikers at the Electric Boat Company submarine plant to divide their picket line today into two sections. Union leaders protested and a wordy argument ensued.

Under the order, which was put in force as the day shift workers entered the factory, the sidewalk must be kept clear for a space of approximately 100 feet in front of the entrance.

Harry L. Bowman, president of the union's local, argued with State Police Sergeant Roy B. Pettingill, and when the officer refused to repeal the ruling, said he would carry the protest to Anthony Sunderland, state police commissioner.

Besides the 200 or more pickets now patroling in front of the shipyards, a few marchers posted themselves at a side gate, several hundred yards away, where union officials charged workers had been "sneaking in."

P. P. Robinson, Electric Boat Works manager, said: "There was no question but that more men reported to work today than yesterday."

Company officials and union representatives remained firm in their refusal to talk peace.

Pie Eating Strikers Ousted

Los Angeles, Feb. 25 (US)—Bowing to a temporary injunction order issued late yesterday, 11 piemakers gave up their sit-down strike last night and walked peacefully out of Brownie's pie shop.

An excited crowd of sympathizers greeted the men as they emerged.

When the bakers started their original sit-down strike three days ago for higher pay, it was all right with Proprietor William Plecity. He called in all of his relatives and in-laws and the baking of pies continued just the same, the strikers eating most of the pies.

Plecity finally became tired of having his pies eaten by the strikers and yesterday filed suits to have them ejected and for $25,000 damages from their unions.

Sit-Down Strikers Battle Douglas Guards

The guards emerged victorious after forcing the strikers out of the engineering department of the plant after what they termed "some scuffling."

The trouble started when a handful of the 300 sit-downers broke through the door into the engineering department where men had worked yesterday in defiance of the strike.

Twelve guards rushed in and struggled with the strikers, forcing them back into the quarters they have occupied for two days and two nights. No arrests were made.

It was the first row between officers and the strikers since the big plant closed down, tieing up $25,000,000 worth of orders and throwing 5000 men out of work.

47 Sit-Downers Held, Paper Plant to Reopen

Decatur, Ill., Feb. 25 (AP)—Officials of the Century Wallpaper plant prepared for resumption of operations today after the arrest of 47 employes who went on a sit-down strike Monday night for higher wages.

The strikers left the plant yesterday when Sheriff Emery Thornell of Macon County and a force of 25 city policemen and five deputies threatened to use force in evicting them.

The strikers, arrested for contempt in ignoring a court order to evacuate Tuesday were released pending a hearing March 16.

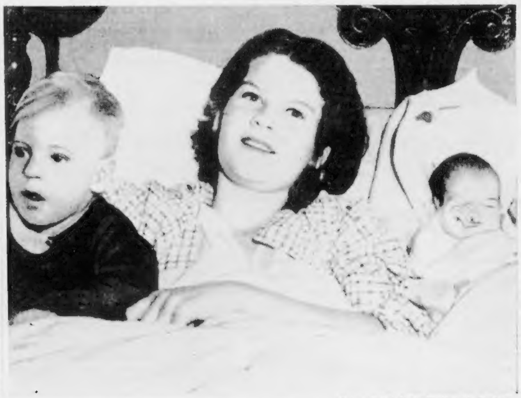
Alabama Mother of Two at Age of 13



International News Photograph Service

A mother of two children at 13 is Mrs. Truman E. Keller, of Bessemer, Ala. She is pictured with her two sons, the oldest born in 1935, the youngest just a few days old. Mrs. Keller lives on a farm with her 28-year-old husband.

SOCIALITE DEATH SEEN LOVE SUICIDE

Still puzzled over the identity of the mysterious "Norman" mentioned in her love note, New York police today stated Mrs. Alice Carey Read Bullivant, member of a prominent Lexington family, apparently committed suicide two weeks ago.

The body of Mrs. Bullivant, noted Boston socialite of a decade ago, was found fully dressed in her luxuriously furnished East 13th street, New York, apartment yesterday.

On the mantel of the living room was a note which read:

"Dear Norman: When you get this I will be dead. My love for you is so much that I cannot do without you in life."

AUTOPSY TODAY

While an autopsy today was to be performed to determine the cause of death, police clung to the suicide theory because of the absence of any signs of violence.

Members of Mrs. Bullivant's family, now living in Marion on the Cape, told the Boston Evening American today they did not know who "Norman" could possibly be.

Mrs. Bullivant was divorced in 1926 from Malcolm Bullivant and is survived by one son, William, 24, who lives in Marion. The family said no arrangements had been made as yet to bring the body here.

The body was discovered by Mrs. Bullivant's aunt, Mrs. Ralph L. Stevens, socially prominent New York woman, who had the apartment opened after she had been unable for two weeks to get in touch with her niece.

There was also no odor of gas in the room, police stated.

The Read family of Lexington were the donors of the Town Hall and public library in that town.

PEGGY LOSES HUBBY AS RUBINOFF WINS

New York, Feb. 25 (INS)—Trouble piled up for Peggy Garcia today after Supreme Court Justice Cotillo yesterday discontinued her $500,000 love suit against David Rubinoff, the violinist.

The justice directed that records of the sensational trial be turned over to the district attorney's office for investigation of possible attempts at extortion. Then Rubinoff's counsel threatened prosecution on a bigamy charge. And to cap it all, her husband, Michael La Rocco, announced he will seek annulment of their marriage.

CLEARS RUBINOFF

Assistant District Attorney Eugene J. Finnegan, who was identified with the recent Al Smith, Jr., extortion case, made the first new move following the termination of the balm trial.

Giving Rubinoff a "clean bill of health, as the court's action did," the Assistant District Attorney said he would ask the blonde ex-Follies girl to come to his office for questioning "within two days." He added ominously:

"I can say this—she will be alone."

Peggy's story that the radio and stage star violinist had lured her to Philadelphia to mistreat her with false matrimonial promises—caused her distraught young husband to end their marriage, he declared.

LOVE ENDED

Peggy, half-resentful and half-tearful, asserted she had gone through with the suit to retain La Rocco's respect. She said:

"Our love is ended! There can be no reconciliation."

Although his counsel had wanted the trial to go on so that his client could be vindicated by a jury, Rubinoff himself was willing today to forget the whole matter.

As for Peggy, she said she was going to try to get back her job in the Harlem night club where she was working as a hat-checker when she was supposed to have met Rubinoff.

Responsibility for dropping the balm case she placed upon the shoulders of her 67-year-old father, Cornelius Harvey Taylor, who came here from Roanoke, Va., to testify for her.

"I had no intention of quitting," she said, "until my father arrived in New York. When he found out all the unkind things that were being said about me he commanded me to withdraw from the case.

"Now all I want is to find a job again."

20 War Vets on 'Hunger Strike'

Wilno, Poland, Feb. 25 (AP) Twenty World War invalids, unable to obtain employment, locked themselves in a private apartment today on a hunger strike until the government provides them with jobs.

The hunger-strikers declared the government pensions most of them receive were too small for subsistence.

Warns U. S. Youth of Dope Peril

Special to Boston Evening American

New York, Feb. 25—Narcotic drugs are "threatening the perpetuity of modern civilization and the human race," Charles H. Tuttle, former United States attorney, declared in a coast to coast radio address.

Mr. Tuttle warned that "the youth of our land" are the "constant prey of drug recruiting agents, who find little difficulty in inducing young people to 'be a good sport' and 'try anything once.'" He said the young man "scarcely realizes that within ten days he may be 'hooked' into a living death."

Rear Admiral Richmond Pearson Hobson, president of the World Narcotic Defense Association, spoke on the program with Mr. Tuttle. He said:

"Students of this problem agree that education has become an absolute necessity for the security and defense of society. We must mobilize public sentiment and teach our youth of the tragic results of the drug habit."

It has required a generation, Admiral Hobson said, to have the major nations of the world unite in a program to "limit the manufacture of harmful drugs to the legitimate needs of the world." International treaties are now subscribed to by 56 nations, and the price of heroin in the underworld has increased more than 1000 per cent.

BETTER LIGHTS ON ROADS SEEN SAFETY AID

New York, Feb. 25 (AP)—Presenting statistics showing automobile driving is four times more dangerous by night than by day, an illuminating specialist told highway officials of several states today that adequate lighting of main country roads is the cheapest and surest preventive.

Before the association of highway officials of the North Atlantic States, Dudley M. Diggs, of the General Electric illuminating laboratory, estimated that funds spent for highway lighting are 66 times more effective in preventing accidents than similar amounts spent for grade crossing elimination.

PRESENTS FIGURES

Diggs' figures showed there were 14,620 daylight fatalities on American highways in 1935, compared to 21,480 between the hours of 6 p. m. and 6 a. m., despite the fact that only one-fifth of the total traffic moves at night.

He also noted a 28 per cent increase of deaths "on the open road" between 1930 and 1935, while deaths on city streets were declining 10 per cent.

An insurance company's investigation, he said, showed only 15 per cent of road accidents were due to unfavorable weather; only 23 per cent of the highway fatalities occurred on slippery roads, and only 8 per cent involved defective machines.

GREATEST HAZARD

Diggs concluded that the element of darkness was the greatest hazard.

"The motorist," he said, "has but a short one to five-second warning of dangers that lie in his path at night."

Cambridge Breaks Net $1265 Loot

Cambridge's busy pass-key burglars were dividing a more than usually profitable haul today, after taking jewels valued at more than $1265 from neighboring apartments in Chauncy street, Cambridge.

Victims were Miss Catherine Patten and Miss Eleanor Voorhees, occupants of adjacent suites in the same building.

Miss Patten lost a small amount of cash and a $50 wrist watch, Miss Voorhees rings, brooches and bar pins amounting to a total value of $1215.

Gaming at Cannes Enjoying Biggest Year Since '29

Copyright, 1937, by International News Service

Cannes, France, Feb. 25—The biggest shower of foreign money since the record year of 1929 is flowing into the Cannes casino, now Europe's smartest gambling resort, F. Andre, the manager, revealed today.

Profits are now 40 per cent ahead of last year's, and Andre expects to net more than $745,000 for the winter season.

The casino is getting its biggest play from the prosperous British with French and Americans next.

Nico Zographos, the mysterious Greek whose syndicate controls the baccarat table, and who is said to own a major piece of every big gambling show in France, said he is getting the biggest bets since 1929.

Zographos said one of the most consistent and heavy losers this season is a divorcee from an American tobacco family, who has dropped several fortunes in recent years and is now in the process of repealing.

HURLEY 'SIT-IN' STAND HIT

Lawrence, Feb. 25 — Governor Hurley is unfair to organized labor and has failed labor for the second time in a week, Anthony Valenti, secretary-treasurer of the Federation of Worsted & Woolen Workers, charged here today.

Valenti said that he referred to the governor's statement at the Harvard Club in Boston last night in which he expressed opposition to "sit-down" strikes.

Since Valenti's union is a division of the United Textile Workers, a C. I. O. affiliate, Valenti said he was expressing organization opinion. He made public text of a letter he said he was forwarding to the State House.

"Your statement in the public press stating your position on sit-down strikes is both unfair and unjust," the letter said. "It is a direct challenge to organized labor in Massachusetts.

"Our organization accepts the challenge and will bring to the attention of the working people that they cannot expect help or cooperation from you."

Relatives here were making funeral arrangements today for Edward Long, Boston department store buyer, who died suddenly in a New York hotel. His home was in Thurlow street, West Roxbury. Mrs. Long was on her way to New York today to bring the body here for burial.

LINK GEM RAID TO KENNEDY BANDITS

Making themselves comfortably at home for more than an hour and a half, the bandits lay in wait for Mr. and Mrs. Kann.

The automobile man and his wife, suspecting nothing, finally let themselves into the apartment with a latch key.

As they entered, the bandits flashed on the lights and confronted them with drawn guns.

They roughly handled both Mr. and Mrs. Kann, subjecting the attractive wife to brutal indignities.

RIP OFF RINGS, COAT

She was struck repeatedly in the face, was thrown to the floor, and was forced to stand, half fainting, as the gunmen ripped her $2100 mink coat and tore rings and bracelets from her hands.

Finally, they bound her with strips of sheet and gagged her with adhesive tape.

For all of their bold deliberation in effecting the holdup, the robbers missed a $15,000 coat of Russian sable hung in a closet, and also missed a $3700 diamond bracelet which fell from Mrs. Kann's wrist as she was knocked down.

The costly trinket rolled under a couch, where the bandits failed to see it.

Throughout the robbery, the gunmen jested grimly with each other about the plight of their victims, addressing taunting and abusive remarks to the white-faced wife and her raging but helpless husband.

One of the bandits said:

"This is almost as good a touch as we made down the line."

Police believe this to be a reference to the $120,000 jewel robbery at the Southboro home of Mrs. William J. Kennedy.

GUEST TELLS OF ROBBERY

Wood's story to police was as follows:

It was a few minutes after 10 o'clock when the buzzer in the apartment sounded. I thought it rather strange as Mr. and Mrs. Kann, whose house guest I am, had gone to the fights and I had been informed that the main bout usually goes on at 10 o'clock.

However, I went to the door but instead of opening up the curtains and looking out into the hallway I unlocked the door leading to the apartment, and was shocked to find a man standing by the wall with a mask covering his entire face. There were two holes to allow him to see. He had a big gun which I should say was an automatic revolver.

He walked towards me. As he did, he said, "everything is O.K."

He backed me into the apartment and a second man with a mask over his face and a gun in hand followed.

Both men were stocky and were rough in their talk.

While one of the gunmen backed me into the corner of the reception room, the other raced to the various bed rooms and came out with several bedding slips. He cut them up into pieces. The other threw me to the floor and warned me if I put up a struggle or made an outcry that he would kill me. I know they meant business.

They tied my hands and feet, placed adhesive tape over my mouth, dragged me into the bathroom, tied my hands in back of me and placed me on my stomach. They then went outside and talked.

I heard them say, we better put out the lights.

When the key was placed in the door by the Kanns, I could hear one say: "Here they come. Handle them roughly but be sure and get the doll's jewelry. If they put up a tussle, give them the works."

Chief Andricll calmed the frightened animal and gradually worked its head loose.

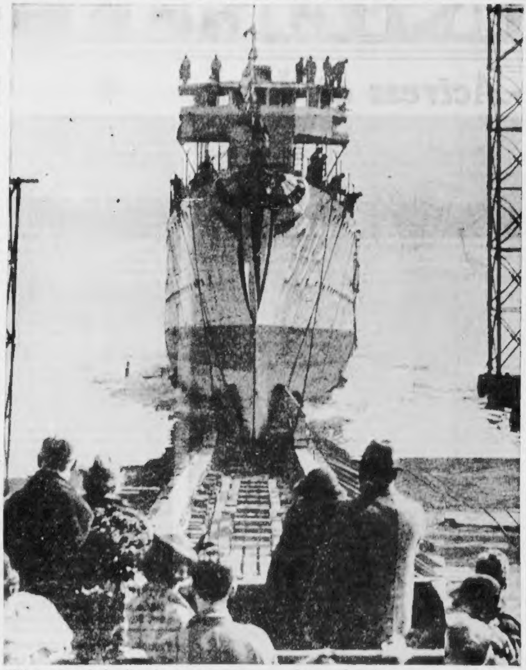
New U. S. Sea Fighter Takes to Waves at Fore River

Ready to christen the U. S. S. Craven with champagne is Mrs. Frank Leonard, the former Ellin Craven of New York City. She is daughter of the late Commander Tunis A. M. Craven, for whom the new destroyer was named.

Boston Evening American Photos



With her huge body glistening in the brilliant sun, the new U. S. destroyer, Craen, is shown here as she slipped down the ways during launching ceremonies at Fore River sip yard today. Some 30 Massachusetts mayors were on hand for the ceremonies. The craft lid smoothly into the water, rode proudly on her first brief voyage.

MRS. KANN TELLS STORY OF HOLDUP

came out of hiding. One of them said:

"Keep your mouths shut, you two."

Then, turning to me, he added:

"So you're the fall, with all the diamonds."

It was then that he knocked me down. While I was on the floor, with his gun menacingly pointed at me, he growled:

"Come across with those diamonds, kid. Make one false move and you get the works."

He then reached down and grabbed my purse which had about $250 in cash in it and a check for a small sum. He fairly ripped a six carat diamond ring from my left hand. Thank the Lord he had the decency to leave my wedding ring where it was.

Next he tore a diamond dinner ring off my other hand, two brooches from my dress and a smaller ring.

He used such force that all my fingers are quite badly bruised. I was frightened to make a sound. I noticed though that he ripped the coat in getting it off me. He then said:

TOO FRIGHTENED TO FAINT

"I don't know whether to kill you or not."

My husband whom the man's accomplice had removed to another room shouted:

"For God's sake take the jewels but don't shoot my wife."

The men ordered him to keep quiet.

I don't know why I didn't faint.

Not satisfied with taking my money and jewels, the man pulled me to my feet, stripped my mink coat from my back and dropped me to the floor again. I was too I guess I was too frightened, hysterical and generally excited that I just couldn't faint.

After they had everything of value they could take from us, the pair tore up a bed sheet into long strips. With this they tied my hands and feet. Next, they put a piece of adhesive tape across my mouth and threw me on the divan in the living room.

Everything was sort of blurred after that, although I could hear the men still threatening my husband somewhere off in the distance.

After that I could hear them going through the different rooms, opening drawers and closets and throwing things on the floor.

It seemed that I was lying there for hours before I heard someone say:

"Well, feller, I guess we've got the works. Let's beat it."

The door then closed and a couple of seconds later I heard a motor start and auto moving away.

After what seemed an awfully long while my husband came rushing out of the other room and made for the telephone. The police were an awfully long time in answering. We thought for a minute the wire had been cut. But eventually he got them and they came over to release me.

My husband later called a physician as he was afraid that I would have a nervous collapse.

Of course I am heartbroken to lose all my rings and my fur coat, but I am more than thankful that the men missed my sables which were locked in a private closet in the bedroom. They are worth more than $15,000.

I don't think I would be able to identify these men, but I certainly do think it was the cheapest sort of thing to humiliate a woman by striking her in that fashion. I don't think I shall ever be able to sleep again.

Suicide Clears Wife of Charge

"Dismissed — principal witness dead" written across a series of charges involving Mrs. Frances Simas, 42, of Broadway, Cambridge, and her husband, John, 56, who committed suicide last Saturday, today brought an abrupt ending to pending actions in Middlesex courts.

Simas was found dead from hanging the day after he was found unconscious from gas fumes with a tube around his neck.

His wife was charged with attack with intent to murder, but her husband's suicide cleared her of the charge today in East Cambridge District Court.

Also dismissed was a statutory offense against Mrs. Simas and Carl Melvard, a former lodger in her house. A divorce action brought against Simas by his wife was automatically dropped, as was an attack charge against Simas involving his wife.

Hauptmann Trial Court Crier Dies

Flemington, N. J., Feb. 25 (AP)—Elmer Hann, whose "hear ye! hear ye!" opened the daily court room drama during the long trial of Bruno Hauptmann, is dead. Court crier of Hunterdon County since 1919 and custodian of county buildings, Hann died yesterday after being ill since December. He was 72 years old.

Hann's tall, straight figure, his bald bear and imperturable mein became a part of the background and atmosphere of the tiny, century-old courtroom to the hundreds who attended the six-weeks' Lindbergh baby kidnap-murder trial.

TREAT A COLD AS IF YOU MEAN IT!

Don't Fool Around with Half-way Measures and Invite Serious Complications!

The so-called "common cold" causes more serious sickness and more enforced absence from work than anything else.

It's a mistake to treat a cold lightly. A cold calls for a cold treatment and not a "cure-all". A cold calls for internal treatment, for a cold is an internal infection.

One of the best things you can take for a cold is Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine. Your own doctor will tell you that.

First of all, Bromo Quinine is a cold tablet, made expressly for the treatment of colds.

Secondly it is internal medication and of fourfold effect.

Here's what it does:

First, it opens the bowels, an advisable step in treating a cold.

Second, it checks the infection in the system.

Third, it relieves the headache and fever.

Bromo Quinine tablets now come sugar-coated as well as plain. The sugar-coated are exactly the same as the regular, except that the tablets are coated with sugar for palatability.

Play safe in your treatment of a cold! The moment you feel the first symptom, go right to your druggist for a package of Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine.

Start taking the tablets immediately, two every four hours. That action will usually break up a cold in 24 hours.

Bromo Quinine contains nothing harmful and is safe to take. Ask the druggist for Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine and insist upon getting what you ask for!

The few pennies' cost may save you a lot in medical bills.

LAUNCH CRAVEN AT QUINCY

The United States navy destroyer Craven, sister ship to the Gridley launched last December 1, slid down the ways today at the Fore River plant of the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation, Ltd.

Guests at the launching included 75 members of the Mayors' Club of Massachusetts, who were holding their monthly meeting in Quincy as guests of Mayor Burgin and the Quincy city council. Governor Hurley also attended with his party, and Mayor Mansfield of Boston was present.

The vessel, named in honor of Commander Tunis Augustus MacDonough Craven, who lost his life in the sinking of the ironclad Tecumseh at the Battle of Mobile Bay, August 5, 1864, was christened by Craven's daughter, Mrs. Frank Learned.

Of 1500 tons displacement, the Craven is 334 feet long along the water line and has an extreme breadth of 35 feet, 6 inches. Two other ships of similar design, the Maury and McCall, are being built at Bethlehem's Union Plant at San Francisco.

The Craven will carry torpedo tubes and five-inch guns.

APPROVE BILL ON NEUTRALITY

Washington, Feb. 25 (AP)—The House foreign affairs committee gave formal approval today to the McReynolds permanent neutrality bill. The vote was 15 to 3.

Designed to replace the temporary neutrality law expiring May 1, the measure would:

Continue provisions for mandatory embargoes on exportations of arms, munitions and implements of war to belligerents and for bans on extending loans or credit to warring countries.

Give the President broad discretion to restrict shipments to fighting nations of materials that could be converted to war uses.

Bring under the American neutrality policy civil wars which threaten to embroil other nations.

$500 Hospital Fire Due to Combustion

Spontaneous combustion was blamed today by fire officials for a blaze in the laundry of the Massachusetts General Hospital which did damage of approximately $500 to sheets and towels.

There was no excitement at the hospital and firemen prevented the flames from injuring the laundry

ANN MARSTERS IN THE MOVIES

Fun on Set Between 'Takes'

Still on the set of the Paramount production, "Waikiki Wedding," Ann Marsters tells today, in the eleventh chapter of the series, "ANN MARSTERS IN THE MOVIES," of a bit of fun that actors and actresses and directors enjoy on the studio stages between "takes" of the film; and she introduces the readers to some of the interesting personalities with which she is working in the picture. The series will continue daily in the Boston Evening American and Boston Sunday Advertiser.

By ANN MARSTERS

(Copyright, 1937, by the Boston Evening American. Reproduction in whole or in part prohibited.)

Hollywood, Cal., Feb. 25—We have a lot of fun, in our small way, on the "Waikiki Wedding" set. Director Frank Tuttle is not a slave driver (as are some of these directors) and he turns out to be an amateur magician, too.

The hula-hula girls and the dark-skinned native boys gather around him, during a lull in the day's shooting, and watch him perform. He holds his hand before our credulous eyes and we watch it turn suddenly pale as snow. He can also make his pulse stop beating, and weird things like that.

Fire Eater

But his talents are nothing compared to those of Max Asher, the make-up man on the set. Asher used to be a professional magician, and he hasn't forgotten many of the fine points of that trade.

He can, for instance, put a lighted cigarette in his mouth, chew it up and swallow it and then, a few seconds later, the cigarette reappears between his lips and he goes on smoking it. He can also swallow lighted matches, one after another. (No amount of crafty scrutiny on our part could disprove these astonishing facts.)

We must present an odd picture as we stand grouped together with the sharp shadows of palms falling across our faces. Here, on Stage 8 of the Paramount studios, we make up a little melting pot of our own; a conglomeration of numerous nationalities and breeds.

Those of us who are fake hula girls, who have merely been painted to look the part, are very much in the minority.

The rest of the extras represent half-castes of almost every mixture imaginable. There is the blood of Tahitians, Hawaiians, Hindus, Indians, Chinese, French, Japanese, Polynesians, all jumbled together. And each of these people must have his or her own reason for coming to Hollywood to be in the movies.

Royalty There

Leroy Prinz, who is Paramount's dance director and who has charge of the dances in "Waikiki Wedding," points out to me some of the more interesting individuals on the set.

He introduces me to a royal prince of Sanini. (That must be somewhere in the South Sea Islands.) The Prince has a handsome face, with rather aquiline features and a bushy shock of iron-gray hair. He has the reputation of being the finest knife dancer in the world, which is quite a title, at that.

I am surprised to hear him speak with a cultured, continental accent.

When it comes to Sanini history, I am a bit vague, so I ask him what it is like to be a prince of Sanini.

"Well," he said, "it is like being a prince in any other country where royalty no longer rules. In other words, it doesn't mean a thing—except socially."

There is also a Hawaiian prince named Lee Lani. And an undersea pearl diver and shark fighter whose name is unpronounceable (as well as unspellable).

So I asked HIM what it is like to fight sharks. He said that it isn't so terribly dangerous, if you know how to do it, and that you can always tell when a shark is near, because the water grows suddenly cold. But he would rather be a movie actor than a shark fighter—as who wouldn't?

Perfect Brunette

There is a very pretty, dark-eyed girl (a non-native) who has the title of "The most perfect brunette in the world." Her name is Ann Meril, and a few days ago she received a telegram offering her a leading role in a New York stage production, "Thirsty Soil." She is under contract to Leroy Prinz—but Prinz isn't going to spoil her chances by holding her to that contract, so she'll be leaving for New York very soon.

Not the least of these people with fascinating titles, is "Big Bill," the property man.

Bores, at Times

He tops them all, for HIS title was once "World's Champion Strong Man." There is no question about it—even though there is no way of checking up on that title, because Bill's full name seems to be quite a mystery. If you ask him his name, he'll grin and say, "Just call me Big Bill." And he continues to toss around huge studio lamps, one of which requires the strength of two ordinary men to lift.

Oh, yes, a movie set can be the most interesting place in the world—sometimes a lot more interesting than the movies which result.

The truth is that the actual making of a picture gets awfully boring, at times. After the first few takes, the newness of a scene wears off, and you get resigned to going over it again and again.

Still, there is always another scene to come, which may—and frequently does—prove exciting.

While we are here in this jungle village, going over and over the scenes of a native wedding, there are carpenters at work on a different stage, building a new set for another sequence of "Waikiki Wedding."

We do not know, now, what will happen on that new set. But when our company moves to it, we are liable to be confronted by almost anything—from a wild animal hunt to a volcano eruption.

How do the big stars of filmdom work in the scenes in which they alone figure? As an extra girl, working with them and observing, Miss Marsters, in TOMORROW'S Boston Evening American will give a picture of Bing Crosby, Bob Burns, Martha Raye and Shirley Ross, principals of the "Waikiki Wedding" cast, at work together in one of the big scenes.

Reporter-Actress at Work

ON THE JOB—There wasn't even time to change from hula hula costume, so Ann Marsters got to work in the Paramount studio, typing out her stories for the series, "Ann Marsters in the Movies," and the stories flowed from the typewriter while cameras ground out the tropical scenes of the film in which the Boston reporter-actress was an extra girl.

'Mid Tropical Scenes

TOGETHER AGAIN—Bob Burns and Martha Raye, who made such a riotous comedy team in "Rhythm on the Range," are together again, producing as many laughs, in the Paramount production "Waikiki Wedding." The above photographs show the pair in one of the scenes of the Hawaiian story.

'Of Great Riches' Lead Offered to Gable

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Motion Picture Editor Universal Service

(Copyright, 1937, by Universal Service)

Los Angeles, Feb. 25—I don't suppose Rose Franken's new book, "Of Great Riches," just bought from the galley proofs by David O. Selznick, has a thing in the world to do with Margaret Mitchell, author of "Gone With the Wind."

But somehow when I heard the idea of the story, which has to do with a woman who writes a best selling novel and makes so much money that her entire life is changed, I couldn't help but think of the case of Miss Mitchell (Mrs. John Marsh). She fought so desperately not to have her privacy invaded after her sensational success but with no avail.

Louella O. Parsons

Jane Murfin has been engaged to write the screen play of the new Franken story. E. Lloyd Sheldon will co-produce with Selznick. And, by the way, girls and boys, don't despair of seeing Clark Gable as Rhett Butler. I heard confidentially that he's all set in a deal between David and MGM.

* * *

Despairing of finding the right velvet for that widely read novel of a few season ago, "National Velvet," Paramount has finally sold the screen rights to Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. I don't like to moralize this nice sunshiny day, but I do think that the book has lost much of its value since it wasn't produced when discussion on this story was at high tide.

MGM, I hear confidentially and not for publication, had its eye on this story from the beginning for Jean Harlow and I have no doubt that Jean will be pleased for she told me only a few days ago that she wanted to play a different type of heroine for a change.

* * *

"Annie" Sothern, the commuting bride, flew in from a reunion with Roger Pryor just in time to learn Sam Briskin had bought "The Muddled Deal" for her next RKO co-starring picture with Gene Raymond. Several attempts have been made to break up this team, but the box-office speaks louder than private ideas, and Ann and Gene are so popular together it would be foolish to separate them at the height of their flare.

* * *

Lots of gab about these Spanish "drammers," but so far not one has reached the screen. 20th Century-Fox was the first company to announce an idea to picture the Spanish revolution, but I don't believe very much has been done other than to write a script.

Now again the Darryl Zanuck Company picks up the idea with the purchase of "Spanish Fandango," a play by Walter Hackett, now running in London. Don Ameche is set for the male lead and incidentally his biggest role to date.

CHATTER IN HOLLYWOOD: The following telegram from Dixie Dunbar seems to speak for itself, so here it is:

"Please deny rumors of engagement to Robert Levy stop he is in New York with the Ring stop also there is no truth in rumor about Bill Davis stop hate bothering you but wanted you to know the truth stop am in love with someone here in California stop."

Now Dixie why don't you stop—unless you want to tell us the name of that mysterious "someone."

* * *

The exotic, picturesque Dorothy Lamour off with a bang as a movie actress. Then days and weeks passed without news about her, principally because the Irene Dunne picture in which she has been working is not yet completed. But now, we hear, Miss Lamour will co-star with Randy Scott in "Artists and Models" with Eddie Sutherland directing. The Slate Brothers of "vod-vile" fame, have been brought here as an added attraction.

Snapshots of Hollywood

Don't take the ELAINE BARRIE-JOHN BARRYMORE reconciliation too seriously. She has been stepping out with this and that cavalier and dancing until the wee sma' hours; if you don't believe BARBARA STANWYCK is still head woman in ROBERT TAYLOR'S life you should see the new sapphire and diamond ring he gave her; DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS, JR., spending his first evening in town with MARLENE DIETRICH at a night spot; ELIZABETH ALLAN and ROBERT RISKIN picking their winners together at Santa Anita. By the by, this twosome is becoming more and more prominent.

PAT O'BRIEN nearly overcome when Fairy Hill raced home to victory in the big race and paid $30 for a two dollar ticket—Pat was on that horse and with plenty; EDDIE LOWE put a sizable bet on Colonel Ed on a hunch and the long shot paid him $42 for $2; SYLVIA and DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS, JOAN PAYSON, ALFRED VANDERBILT with the HENRY FONDAS; GLORIA SWANSON, really stunning in an exotic brown ensemble with a legionnaire hat, beaued by GUSTAVE SCHIRMER; MRS. ASTAIRE, clinging to Fred's arm, let him do all the picking.

The studios must have been empty because everyone and his brother were at the Washington Birthday meet and it was a gala event; the LEWIS MILESTONES cocktailing in honor of JOAN WHITNEY PAYSON; LORD CASTLEROSS the guest of the JACK WARNERS at the preview of "Marked Woman"; wait until you see BETTE DAVIS' new haircut; LEONARD HANNA of Cleveland cocktailing the film crowd with MRS. HERMAN OELRICHS, who was robbed of $80,000 worth of jewels at Palm Springs, the center of attraction.

REVEALS PLANS FOR NEW REGIME

HOME SEX STUDY URGED

Bitter in his denunciation of parents who fail to give their children sex education on the intimate facts of life, Arthur L. Gould, new superintendent of schools, declared as he took office today that such failure was the cause of many child education problems.

[illegible]

"Many problems face our school system today but it seems to me that little attention is being given by modern parents to the delicate and vitally important question of sexual information.

"Maladjustment of children to life often begins around the eighth grade and they become liabilities to home, school and community because parents have been careless about awakening sensibilities of the child to sex.

Job for Parents

"It is not the job of the school to teach this information. I strongly disapprove of any teacher in our system so doing.

"The responsibility begins in the personal atmosphere of the home, where the parent must realize the delicacy of the problem, the absolute necessity of sparing the child a cheap disillusionment."

The new superintendent admits, of course, that readjustment of Boston's secondary school system is necessary. He comes into office fully realizing that an intensive [illegible] made of junior and senior high schools.

The "old education" in his opinion must be banished.

"There is no such thing as a standard type of childhood. There is no one pathway to the development of a child's personality. That is why the sex question is so important, why it must be taken seriously."

A parent should begin [illegible] [illegible]

"The true meaning of education is to bring out, not so much putting in. Religious atmosphere nourishes and stimulates a child and I shall take personal interest in this problem. No child can ever know its full powers until it learns the experience of God."

[illegible]

Must Inspire Trust

"A well-trained teacher is not enough. I am interested in the type of man or woman who inspires trust, who makes a child feel at ease because the child knows the older person has qualities which he wants to possess himself.

[illegible]

"Child psychology as far as an intelligent teacher is concerned is trying to cultivate an awareness of the child's individuality."

Martha Lee Also Gives Suggestions for Cutting Wedding Cake

By MARTHA LEE

WE have had numerous requests recently, some of which were of a nature that we thought might interest other home-makers.

Mrs. F. G. of Bangor, Maine, wants to know how to cut a large round cake advantageously without having great wedges that taper to such a point that they crumble.

To cut a large round cake in uniform portions use a sharp knife—dip it into a tall glass or pitcher of hot water before each slicing.

Then cut inside portion into pie-shaped pieces; divide outer portions into twice as many slices as inside portion. The resulting pieces are of convenient size. Follow this suggestion, too, for cutting wedding cake. Cut two of these circles instead of one if the cake is a large one.

NEW ENGLAND'S GREATEST EVENING NEWSPAPER

AUSTEN LAKE

Trouble in Utopia; Eight Red Sox In Salary Sulks

AUSTEN LAKE

AT A COST OF NEARLY $4,000,000 and five years of [illegible] the young Croesus of the Red Sox, Mr. Tom Yawkey, has had little for his outlay but some summer fun, a saving in his income tax and a shocking lesson in human nature.

At the moment there are eight among his pampered pets who are still delinquent in their 1937 contracts and who, by silent hauteur, hint that they are having a salary sulk and do not wish to be disturbed.

In addition to Jimmy Foxx, who admits frankly that his new contract which sweats $5000 off his last year's pay is an "insult to my intelligence," there are seven other pay-pouters: Lefty Grove, Roger Cramer, Eric McNair, Rube Walberg, Jack Russell, John Kroner and Fritz Ostermueller.

That is, I assume these seven are wage whimperers, though, of course courtesy requires that no player shall be slurred by the ugly word "holdout" until either he admits it, like Foxx, or ignores the training deadline, which is still a week away.

It is just possible that the [illegible] have been meaning to mail their signed [illegible] during a lull in their quail hunting [illegible].

[illegible] known [illegible] as the ball players [illegible] cool, unless they were vexed by the [illegible] in that part which reads, "In consideration of the sum [illegible] I herewith agree."

Either the [illegible] the numerals and squiggle a quick acceptance [illegible] or they detest the little numerals and [illegible] weeks to profane haranguing of the local [illegible].

They never [illegible] without a motive.

▸ ▸ ▸

THEY MAY BE WAITING FOR YAWKEY

THERE ARE TWO SCHOOLS OF HOLDOUT procedure.

The No. 1 type, [illegible] at his terms, screeches by [illegible] to the papers of the city, hoping to excite public opinion and terrify his boss.

The No. 2 type, to which the Silent Seven belong, just sits down, [illegible], with his neck pulled in and storing [illegible] until he can [illegible] the owner's ear and suggest, by the example of [illegible] humility, that he is a loyal servant deserving of a raise.

Thus no wage whimper has escaped the lips of the Silent Seven, who posted no appeals to Eddie Collins in the realization that this was to [illegible] quick and, perhaps, uncouth retort.

They just settled down to save their whines until Yawkey went South to training, [illegible] that this rich and liberal young man would shell out extra thousands to spare the wear on his eardrums and to keep them singing at their work. They had found by past experience that one little hour of chat with Tom was worth a year of squabbling with Collins and Cronin.

JIMMY DIDN'T HUSTLE $22,000 WORTH

THE LABORER IS ALWAYS WORTHY OF his hire, according to effort and ability. No one grudges Foxx his earnings which are said to run $22,000 per annum, plus pickings. But Foxx is paid on the basis of production and when he remarks that a $5000 cut is an "insult to intelligence," pointing out that he hit .338, the answer is that he was paid on his former batting standard of .3[illegible] and upward, and on an expectancy of dash and hustle which that wage implied.

Jimmy did not hustle $22,000 worth.

St. Petersburg, Fla., Feb. 25—Today sees the start of the most revolutionary baseball experiment in years.

30-YEAR AVERAGE

QUINN OPTIMISTIC

[illegible]

"I don't say we'll burn up the league," chirps the "prexy," but I'm sure the so-called old men I've picked up will help us a lot more than the majority of the kids I've had in the past few years.

"I'd much rather have a good young player than a good old one, of course, but I prefer having a 35-year-old who can fill the bill right away to a 25-year-old who is a few years away. I think the common practice of passing up a player for no other reason than that he's over 30 is silly.

"I took on veterans like Fette, McGowan and Harris because they shaped up as far more promising prospects to me than any of the flaming youths I saw in the minors last season.

"And until the crop of youngsters in the bushes improve, I'm going to keep gambling on older but classier players, even if they wear out in a season or two.

"I'm thinking mainly of the race at hand and not of campaigns three or four years away.

"I repeat, I'm not looking for any miracles from my club this year, but neither am I doing any worrying about it, simply because some of the boys are getting along in years.

"We'll have nine healthy, hustling, good ball players on the field every day. And we'll do better than last year."

Scranton Club Latest Bee Farm

President Bob Quinn of the Boston Bees today announced that he had secured the franchise of the Scranton Club of the N. Y. P. League, giving the Boston entry the Class A farm that it had been seeking. The franchise had been forfeited and was awarded to Pres. Quinn.

Bob Coleman, former St. Louis Browns outfielder and last season manager of the San Antonio Club in the Texas League, will take over the reins.

This move gives the Bees five minor league clubs with representation in classes A to D.

At the same time Quinn announced that he had received the signed contracts of Gene Moore and Jim Mosolf, leaving Buck Jordan the only player on the roster whose contract has not been received.

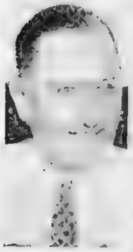
FRED HOEY Writes:

Hello Everybody, this is Fred Hoey speaking:

With the Boston Park Department Baseball League catering to 20,000 players, the largest number in the world, and cities and towns throughout New England displaying renewed interest in our national game, it comes as a distinct shock to learn that a few high schools in Boston's vicinity, which once were among the scholastic standouts, have decided to forego baseball this season, while other schools contemplate following suit.



FRED HOEY

Wakefield high school, which gave us the brilliant Harrington brothers, Frank, Joe and Bill, all pitchers, Catcher Joe Casey, later with Detroit, and Infielders Malone and Young, is one school that has decided to pass up the game.

[illegible]

School football today is big business. Maybe baseball interferes with spring football practice. Then, too, there's the possibility that a coach might be a bit lame in his baseball knowledge. But it must be distressing to old grads to see a once healthy and refreshing sport, which [illegible] boys, irrespective of size or weight, a [illegible] tossed into the ash can.

Los Angeles, Feb. 25—Your California correspondent has just come from the C. V. Whitney barns, where he had a heart-to-heart talk with a horse called Red Rain about the $100,000 Santa Anita Handicap to be run on Saturday. Red Rain seemed cheerful. So is your correspondent.

[illegible]

"I couldn't have found an opening in his last race if there'd been one," said Workman, explaining his decision to wear goggles for the first time in his life, "and I know now how this horse got bad eyes from having sand tossed into them.

"I was washing gravel out of my eyes for three days. But that won't stop us with that hundred thousand hanging on the line.

"We'll be running when they're stopping, so don't give up on us until the numbers drop."

MR. BOSTON

Hockey Addicts Most Violent | Wrestling Fans Still Have Fun

By JACK CONWAY

If the Carnegie Foundation wishes any information on the matter I am prepared to go on record to the effect hockey fans are the wildest type of sport addicts. They make wrestling, boxing, baseball, football and other classes of athletic enthusiasts appear as calm as the village preacher at a Sunday school picnic.

Mr. Boston

I have rated Mr. and Mrs. Hockey Fan in the No. 1 position for daffiness ever since the Canadian sport got a strong hold in Boston. Just so that I would be able to keep up with the latest happenings, I dropped in at the Garden to see the Bruins smack the Amerks around.

The fact the Bruins won was not half as interesting to me as were the actions of the fans. When Joe Jerwa of the visiting firemen whacked Bill Cowley to the ice, splitting Bill's head, the crowd rose as one man and yelled for its gallon of blood.

It gained some satisfaction when Jerwa was sent to the penalty box, but it didn't feel entirely satisfied until Jerwa was later bumped around by some of the home town boys.

[illegible]

I sometimes think colorful players and smart officials add to the excitement of hockey matches by throwing a lighted match into the dynamite at the psychological moment.

If they do, it adds to the excitement of the game, and gives the fans something to talk about when they go home.

Baer Refuses To Apologize To Solons

[illegible]

"We came here with every assurance the Baer-Foster match would have official OK," said Hoffman. "The original contract stipulated it would be null and void unless such an OK was obtained from the boxing commission by February 10. I gave the Garden a two weeks extension until yesterday, meanwhile advising British promoters I would take Baer abroad if the deal here fell through.

"Now they want Baer to go down to another meeting, apologize and get his license. Apologize for what?

"He was there to get the license yesterday, submitting to an examination and doing everything asked of him. But all he got was a bawling out from Commissioner Bill Brown."

Cuban Sugar Price Factors Analyzed

[illegible] The decline in the price of sugars to United States markets has placed Cuba in a position where it must sell to other world markets at a higher quotation in order to maintain its average selling price at or above production costs. Since the establishment of the United States quota system and special Cuban trade agreement and up to about a month ago, Cuba had been securing from 1½ to 1⅝ cents above the world price on sugars sold to the United States. Approximately 98 cents of this was the result of Cuba's preferential and special trade agreement duty, with the balance reflecting the effects of the quota system on United States prices. This parity over world market has been steadily decreasing since the middle of January. Actual sugars to United States markets are only about [illegible] cents above the world parity.

STREET RAILWAY

Earnings GAIN IN January

By HUGH E. BRADSHAW

Despite a drop in gross operating revenues the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway showed an improvement in net income in January this year over the figure reported for the like 1936 month.

The answer is found under railway operating expenses which show a sharp decline under the figure for the previous year.

A comparison of 1935 and 1936 figures reveals the differences far better than words:

	1936	1935
Oper revenues ..	$590,525	$634,731
Oper expenses ..	348,936	390,313

This naturally results in a balance of $242,089 compared with $244,418 before deduction of other items. Dropping down through the income statement an increase in taxes is noted as well as loss in other income. But these differences are more than offset by a decrease in interest, rents, etc., and a decline in deductions for depreciation and equalization. The net result is a jump in January net income, before provision for retirement items, from [illegible] to $32,774.

The utility group can hardly be blamed for shivering and shaking in face of the news that the administration approved proposals permitting federal projects to take over by condemnation privately owned facilities. The possibilities contained in such proposals practically defy imagination. Theoretically establishment of a federal project in any area will jeopardize private utility enterprises now serving it, in our opinion. Naturally a broad scale program can not be inaugurated overnight, but the very fact it would take place over a period of years is enough to foster uncertainty.

Notebook: It is said that Loew's is currently earning at about twice the rate of last year's earnings of $6.73 per share. This is without benefit of seasonal adjustments, however, and an estimate of $10 per share for 1937 seems more logical. ... General Time Instrument, one of the lesser known stocks, is expected to show around $7 per share for 1936. ... And it is said to have possibilities of earning close to $8 per share this year. ... Celotex is currently running at capacity and if it continues to do so, its boosters say it will earn around $5 per share for the year.

The rails still hold the key to market movements in the immediate future. Breaking 51 on the Dow-Jones index would be an unfavorable sign since the industrials have already penetrated a minor resistance point. As a safety first measure we suggest selling [illegible] should the rails break the level noted. In connection with the rails it is worth noting that the Associated Press rail bond average has been heavy. It has retreated back into the narrow [illegible] traced in October-December from which it freed itself in January.

* * *

Ticker Ticks: While it is not unusual for an average to decline again into a formation, such as that above, it should not remain there too long. ... Rail bonds have now spent the better part of five weeks in their second trip to the area noted. ... Upside action soon would be decidedly encouraging to this writer. ... If the carrier section does get going, there are several selected industrials that could join them in smart style. On a when, as and if basis we will list for the present American Can, Sears Roebuck and du Pont. ... Union Pacific could and should provide the spark of real leadership.

METALS Dominate MARKET

PROFIT TAKING HITS COPPERS

New York, Feb. 25—Metal shares dominated stock dealings today. Cheap base metal stocks appeared after an opening buying splurge running to a block of 10,000 shares of Mother Lode.

Such low-priced issues as Silver King, Callahan Zinc, Mother Lode and Park Utah, along with the upper bracket St. Joseph Lead, gained from large fractions to more than 2 points. Alaska Juneau and South American Gold and Platinum each gained a point.

Copper shares were under the influence of moderate profit-taking. This included Anaconda, Phelps-Dodge and Kennecott.

U. S. Steel and Youngstown Sheet & Tube slipped behind small minus signs. Republic and Bethlehem showed little change.

Chrysler held almost 2 points of its first hour run-up of 2½. General Motors and Nash-Kelvinator were substantially improved.

Generally higher prices were seen in rails, farm implements, aviation shares and merchandising stocks. Southern Pacific spurted nearly 2 points.

Oils and rubbers were little changed.

Bonds were led upward by rail liens. Grains were under pressure, wheat losing 4 cents a bushel. Cotton was mixed.

Current Topics

Holders of the steels read with interest the weekly survey of "Iron Age" predicting a price advance affecting nearly all products within the next few days.

This boost, it was said, may be followed by another wage increase for mill workers, the amount to be determined by negotiations which will soon get under way.

The industry, the review added, now leans to the view there will be no general steel strike in the immediate future.

Sterling and the French franc were slightly lower at the beginning of foreign exchange transactions, the former at $4.88 15-16, the latter at 4.65 1-16 cents.

Gilchrist Company

Gilchrist Company directors declared a dividend of 25 cents a share, payable March 31 to stock of record March 20. On December 21, last, the company paid a dividend of 25 cents and in addition a special dividend of 25 cents a share.

Wage Increase

A 10 per cent wage increase for some hourly paid employes of Aluminum Co. of America will be granted as of March 1.

Comments of Brokers

I expect the rally to become more selective today as I doubt whether bidding up of the steels, rails and motors will continue while the threat of labor troubles overhangs those industries.—J. S. Wilson, Josephthal & Co.

We would regard the upturn as being largely technical in character, while waiting for the market to complete what should prove a final test of its position.—J. E. Malloy, Hornblower & Weeks.

So far as bondholders are concerned, any further decline in the second grade group of sound bonds may be taken as an opportunity for additional purchases on a scale down.—F. H. Richardson, Southgate & Co.

Expect an early topping out of this minor bulge and a test of solidity of this week's bottoms as a trading base. Pending such test would utilize strength in individual issues to dispose of stocks which traders would be unwilling to carry through a possible further reaction.—H. D. Comer, Paine, Webber & Co.

While these influences in liquidation hang over, the market must be regarded as a highly selective trading affair, and a policy of lightening holdings on such outstanding rallies as last week's will be warranted.—J. P. Maher, Shields & Co.

Subject to intermittent irregular spells, extension of Wednesday's recovery appears a near term prospect.—J. S. Bache & Co.

Farmers Debts In Mass. Reduced About 6 P. C.

Washington, Feb. 25 (INS)—Farmers' debts in California have been reduced 44.6 per cent, in Massachusetts an average of six per cent and throughout the country generally, an average of 25.6 per cent, records of the resettlement administration (RA) revealed today.

The variance in the rate of debt reduction was attributed to the fact that the adjustments were made by voluntary, local committees working with the farmers and their creditors.

In Massachusetts, debts of $688,433 of 114 farmers were reduced by $41,759.

"More than 50 per cent of all cases considered by the voluntary committee have been adjusted successfully," said Acting RA Administrator C. B. Baldwin. "This means that both creditors and debtors recognize that it is to their mutual advantage to adjust top-heavy debts, contracted in boom times, in line with the debtor's ability to pay."

18th Anniversary Of "Gas" Taxes

The 18th "birthday" of state gasoline taxes today was being observed throughout the country by the payment of $2,000,000 additional taxes on motor fuel. Oregon first levied the gasoline tax to finance roads on February 25, 1919. The $2,000,000 represented a normal day's gasoline tax payment.

Baird H. Markham, director of the American Petroleum Industries Committee, said the cost of gasoline taxes to the average motorist has increased from $18.60 a year in 1930 to $31 in 1936.

Industry Benefits for Workers

By B. C. FORBES

What are American managements now doing for their men?

Which trends are waxing, which waning?

Group insurance now covers 6,500,000 workers. Total, $10,000,000,000. Average policy, $1600.

Over 800 formal or informal company pensions plans are in force, covering at least 2,000,000 workers. Usual retirement age, 65 for men, 60 for women.

Employe stock ownership is on the decline.

Paid vacations are becoming more common.

Training of workers is spreading.

The five-day week is being widely adopted. Average hours veering toward forty.

* * *

I am privileged to present these and the following figures from a copyright article to appear in the 1937 social work year book published by the Russell Sage Foundation:

Group insurance policies are either contributory for employes or non-contributory, with a marked tendency toward the contributory feature. Coverage is for life insurance in all cases, with additional provisions for sickness and disability in about half the policies.

Mutual benefit associations among employes of over 700 companies provide similar protection. Membership, over 2,500,000.

* * *

Of the 800 pension plans, the group annuity type of provision is used in about 400 establishments. Typical pension: About half the employe's wage at retirement.

At least 517 companies have some form of dismissal compensation to ease laid-off employe's transition to other employment. Amounts paid vary from two weeks to six months' pay.

About 40 companies guarantee employment to their workers for from 48 to 50 weeks a year.

Various types of savings funds are encouraged in several hundred companies, varying from systematic weekly collections deposited in local savings banks to company trusteed funds in which employes' savings are partially matched out of the company treasury for a higher rate of interest paid than the savings bank rate.

About 100 companies sponsor building and loan associations. Also over 800 credit unions are operated in more or less direct association with corporations.

Scores of employe-stock ownership plans have been discontinued. At present 160 are in effect. Few have recently been instituted. Executive stock-ownership accounts for a substantial minority of all shares thus outstanding.

"The discontinuance of these plans since 1930," it is observed, "argues that the original motive has not been realized, especially as lowered security prices have frequently occasioned serious losses rather than savings."

* * *

In 1936, 108 profit-sharing plans were in operation. The majority of the successful ones are in smaller establishments.

* * *

The following facts are also given:

A study made by the national industrial conference board in 1936 showed that in nearly 1600 companies, employing 4,193,000 workers, 235 had full-time doctors on duty; several hundred others had doctors on part-time or on call. Over 800 companies employed full-time nurses, 1124 provided initial physical examination and 471 annual re-examinations.

One study reports that 439 establishments grant vacations with pay to wage earners; adding those granting them to clerical workers the total would be around 2000.

Training to fit workers for specific jobs is administered under an educational director in 116 companies; 848 companies report having a training program.

* * *

The conclusion reached is:

"Irrespective of the fact that the motives for personnel work may be primarily to increase output and profits, it remains true that its benefits in terms of employes' well-being and general standard of life are impressive in the aggregate."

* * *

Yet, in my opinion, only a beginning has been made. It is imperative that managements do more and more to promulgate the comfort and happiness of their work folks and thus EARN their loyalty and good will.

Walter Hampden in Radio Spotlight

By N. F. T.

Always the Thursday evening roundup is literally running over with guest artists, the best known that program planners can catch, not too busy in other directions. Among the notables being networked into the air (WEEI) tonight, the Walter Hampden personality will be heard as a "Bandwagon" hour guest with Kate Smith between 8 and 9 o'clock.

"N. F. T."

Hampden has [illegible] to hold forth in a comedy role adapted for the "mike" from the Ibsen gem, "An Enemy of the People," now a leading stage production on the Broadway list of timely shows. He has long been regarded as one of the most gifted Shakespearean actors of all time. At present he is taking the portrayal of his part in the above footlight and is eager to put the piece on the air waves.

VALLEE VARIETIES

Rudy Vallee's "Variety Hour" steps out of its usual sphere for a guest star (WNAC) this evening at 8 o'clock when Hilaire Belloc, famous English writer, comes to the program for his first American radio interview.

Belloc is the most distinguished figure of the literary world who has ever been presented on the Vallee Hour. On the same program are Jean Hersholt, of the movies, Edgar Bergen and Jean Sablon, French radio singing star.

* * *

Well known Hub radio folk are prompting demand for local personal appearances aplenty lately, particularly the popular vocalists, Selma Johanson, striking blonde soprano of the air waves hereabouts, together with Walter Kidder, the gifted baritone soloist, were the principal artists during the gala festive board gathering of the Massachusetts Savings Banks Officers Club, held at the Chamber of Commerce last night. Earl Widener did the planning and Phil Claff contributed novelty accordion specialties to supplement the much-appreciated and well-received soloing by Miss Johanson and Mr. Kidder. It was the 40th birthday party of the organization.

CROSBY AND COMPANY

Bing Crosby's weekly omnibus of talent will include Mary Garden of the opera, and Jimmy Cagney of the movies in his "Music Hall" broadcast this evening (WNAC) from 10:00 to 11:00 p. m. Bob Burns will, of course, do his share of "horning in," while Bing interviews his guests of the hour.

* * *

Ruth Chatterton, stage and screen actress, and two child performers will join Lanny Ross' "Show Boat" cast (WNAC) at 9 o'clock tonight. Miss Chatterton will present a dramatic sketch from Sir James M. Barrie's "Mary Rose," which was one of her earlier Broadway successes. The child performers are Mary Small, 16-year-old contralto, and Marjorie Edwards, 14-year-old violinist. Mary, who has her own program, will sing a medley of blues songs. Marjorie has appeared as soloist with such organizations as the Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra and the Long Island Symphony Orchestra, and plans to make a concert tour of 20 cities next fall.

ABOUT ART

Mr. Walter Barrmann will be the final speaker in the first group of related talks on "What Use is Art, Anyway," presented by the Boston Museum of Fine Arts over station WAAB this evening from 7:30 to 7:45 p. m.

Early Tax Returns Show Big Increase

Public response to the plea for early filing of income taxes has been very gratifying so far, according to an announcement from William M. Welch, collector of internal revenue.

He reported returns filed to date are far ahead of the number received at this time last year.

Party Decay a Principal Danger in America

ONE OF THE greatest dangers that confronts the country today is the disintegration of the two major traditional political parties into purely selfish groups, or blocs.

The historic Democratic and Republican parties represent two great ideas, and the history of our progress is a constant compromise between the Federalism of Hamilton and the principle of local self-government of Jefferson.

Today these two ideas—as necessary to one another as the centripetal and centrifugal forces in the sidereal universe—are giving way under the pounding of "farmer," "labor," "industrial," "capitalistic," "city," "country" blocs.

This is precisely what brought about the crisis in Spain and is driving France on to what may be civil war—a war of the groups.

DR. GLENN FRANK, in a recent broadcast, put this danger before the country with unusually clarifying vigor when he said:

"A NATION CAN NEITHER ACHIEVE NOR MAINTAIN ENDURING GREATNESS ON THE BASIS OF MASS BLACKMAIL OF GOVERNMENT BY PRESSURE GROUPS OR MASS BRIBERY OF PRESSURE GROUPS BY GOVERNMENT."

These pressure groups, Dr. Frank said, "bring their demands to bear upon government accompanied by THE PROMISED SUPPORT OR THREATENED ANTAGONISM OF THEIR VOTING STRENGTH."

His remedy is for a "STATESMANSHIP THAT WILL COURAGEOUSLY GAMBLE ON THE ASSUMPTION THAT TO FORGET POLITICS MIGHT BE THE BEST POLITICS: FOR A STATESMANSHIP WILLING, IF NEED BE, TO LOSE AN ELECTION IN ORDER TO SAVE ITS SOUL; FOR A STATESMANSHIP DETERMINED TO STABILIZE THE NATIONAL FUTURE THROUGH A WIDELY SPREAD AND WISELY BALANCED PROSPERITY THAT PLAYS FAVORITES WITH NO ECONOMIC GROUP."

SUCH a "statesmanship" may sound somewhat quixotic, but there is no other definition of "statesman" than a man who puts PRINCIPLE above POLITICAL EXPEDIENCY.

Men of this kind are the one thing needful in America, failing in which we shall descend to the maelstrom of political anarchy with the motto: "Each one for himself and may the devil take the hindmost."

An Invitation to Mr. Ford

HENRY FORD'S decision to establish an automobile parts factory in a Georgia farm community interests New England.

It is the Detroit manufacturer's belief that industries of the future will consist of small units surrounded by farms able to sustain them.

The idea is not new; it was tried with considerable success by pioneers in this section a hundred and more years ago, when many of our now idle villages were prosperous centers of combined farming and industry.

Mr. Ford, going South, might also come North. The branch factories he proposes to build are sorely needed in scores of our New England communities.

Here he will find not only abundant water power, skilled workmen and generous co-operation, but also a determination to revive and invigorate our smaller cities and towns.

Shorter Week for Police

THE patrolman, carrying on his work in all weathers, constantly faced with the most unhappy events and frequently risking his life in the course of duty, is entitled to the rest and relaxation other people enjoy.

That is the purpose of the six-day week for police officers long discussed in Massachusetts.

A bill to provide this has been filed by Representative Paul A. McCarthy of Somerville and is now being considered in the Legislature.

The consideration should be favorable.

An Excellent Selection

THE Boston School Committee's selection of Arthur L. Gould as superintendent of schools deserves praise.

It is a tribute to the work of the late superintendent, Dr. Patrick T. Campbell, with whom, Mr. Gould, as senior member of the Board of Superintendents, was closely associated.

It is a just recognition of thirty-one years of excellent service in the Boston School Department.

It is a worthy honor to a man who, after completing a Normal School course, continued his education to win degrees and awards from three outstanding colleges and universities.

It is an appointment that parents, teachers and friends of education will applaud and consider one of merit.

Faced with the exceedingly difficult task of filling an important position, the School Committee recognized its responsibility and proved itself equal to it.

For when Superintendent Gould says, "I shall work always to maintain the high standards which my worthy predecessors, especially the late Dr. Campbell have set for me," everybody knows he is sincere.

The Drive On WPA "Gifts"

JOHN J. McDONOUGH, State WPA administrator, acting on complaints, has ruled that the practice of soliciting money from relief workers for political or social events must stop.

The administrator is absolutely right.

As he puts it, "the implications of a person in authority on the WPA urging a worker to make contributions are too plain to require discussion."

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McIntyre

New York, Feb. 25—Not even winter snow and winds halt the venerable croquet players in Central Park. In the rain they totter on under umbrellas. All of them are spruce and chipper and each seems so eloquently to say: "There's life in the old boy yet!"

O. O. McIntyre

There are about one hundred left—an organization that dates back to the days when the game was in full flower some 50 years ago. Croquet seems to be an hereditary pastime. It is carried on in families even unto the third generation.

Of course, there are some modern exponents. Such as Ethel Petit Roche, Neysa McMein, Gene Markey, Charles and Kathleen Norris and several others. But they play on private grounds. The Central Park devotees are almost all past sixty and unusually hearty, courtly but earnest.

One of the groundkeepers tells me he has never heard an argument since he took on his job 12 years ago. Sometimes the old fellows get into a pout and sulk, not speaking to their opponents for several days. But they never voice their anger. Always gentlemen of the old school.

My recent reference to that grand short story, "Skinner's Dress Suit," and a faulty memory as to the author brings information it was the late Henry Irving Dodge. Also, it reveals an early romance in the films. The story was the first directorial assignment of Harry Beaumont with Hazel Daly in the title role of "Honey." It was the first meeting of the director and star and now after 18 years of married life she is still "Honey" to him. Also their children—the Beaumont twins—rate high in the community noted for run-way beauty.

Mention of Harry Beaumont is remindful that some day he should be filmed himself in his travesty of the Gay 90 song and dance man doing a "while strolling through the park" number with dance interpolations, funny sayings and gestures. It is as comic as anything in the field of impersonations today and its filming should be preserved for the archives of a period that should never be forgotten. My favorite of song and dance teams was McWatters and Tyson.

Paul Whiteman has probably the most valuable cigarette case in the world—originally an enormous plain gold affair, but now with tiny jeweled mementos encrusted over it. Tokens from the Duke of Windsor, when he was Wales, from Chevalier, Stowkowski, Mary Garden, Tibbett and indeed from the pick of celebrities of the screen, stage and radio stars as well as many literary luminaries. They were collected over a period of ten years.

Thingumbobs: E. D. Coblentz, Morris Gest and Billy Gaxton can sing-song a jargon that sounds exactly like Chinese . . . J. Edgar Hoover has stopped visiting night clubs . . . Bill Robinson is Shirley Temple's favorite cinema actor . . . Elsa Maxwell is wanted by backers to direct the town's most exclusive night club . . . Gene Markey, ace movie scenarist, is an accomplished caricaturist.

A big stage laugh of the season is in a play dealing with a goofy family in the Bronx. An income tax man calls and the grumpy man of the house receives him with total indifference. He admits he has never paid taxes and does not intend to. When asked why, he snaps: "Because I do not believe in it."

Listen, World!

By Elsie Robinson

All these mad, male mutterings about the damage wrought by working wives—blaming practically everything from ingrowing toenails to the income tax on Feminine Jobs and saying how Beauteous Brides oughtta stay home where they belong!

Elsie Robinson

Well, maybe so, Boys. And again—maybe not. But there's one side of the question which you all overlook. Namely, this—If jobs raise Cain with the modern Missis, how about idleness?

Personally I'm willing to wager any odds that "the sheltered home life," as lived by the average bride, is incomparably more demoralizing to Honeybunch in particular and Society in general, than any office job.

You men spoiled all that when you grabbed the domestic chores and turned them into Big Business. So nowadays it's Harry and Fred who bustle over the preserve kettle, leaving Mrs. Newlywed to loaf around in a one or two-room furnished apartment, where—as any honest woman will admit—there isn't enough real work to keep a child busy.

Mind you, I've nothing against apartments per se, but I certainly have the lowest possible opinion of the life which unemployed, childless wives live in them.

Consider this typical program. Prior to marriage, Mildred has spent five years in offices, where she has been compelled to be prompt, efficient and courteous. Then Darling Bill arrives with the wedding bells.

LITTLE TO DO

For the first few weeks everything is ducky. Mildred rises with Bill, prepares his breakfast. But presently comes the inevitable argument—WHY ON EARTH should she get up at this UNEARTHLY HOUR? And WHAT is she GOING TO DO WITH HERSELF AFTERWARDS if she does?

If Darling Bill is the usual soft-headed sap, there is only one answer to this—she DOESN'T get up. Henceforth, Bill rustles his fodder in the nearest cafeteria while Mildred snores until 9 or 10. Then she begins the regular morning round of Dirt Dishing over the phone with Dear Mama and the Girl Friends.

Several reputations have been wrecked, she scratches around for a few minutes with the carpet sweeper, empties an ash tray and bathes the gold fishes. Next she goes into a long, lucious huddle with the make-up box. She then emerges, radiantly groomed, for the afternoon program of window-shopping, beauty-parloring, hotel-lounging, matinee, bridge and other assorted forms of time-wasting.

From this she reluctantly tears herself at 5:15 . . . grabs a chicken pie at the nearest delicatessen . . . and rushes home three jumps ahead of Bill, to greet him with lamentations about her Dreadful Headache—and why can't she have A New Spring Hat like Clara's—and Where's he going to take her tonight, so she can get away from this "pokey hole 'n' have a little fun?"

DESTROYS CHARACTER

After six months of this typical program, what happens? Exactly what would happen to a male under similar circumstances. A perfectly healthy, kindly, self-respecting human being becomes a selfish, scheming, lazy, gossipy, extravagant, whining little clown. And the American character receives another swift kick—down a long trail which is getting it nowhere fast.

So maybe you're right about jobs being bad for married ladies, m'lads. But if you think that our present domestic schedule is anything to boast about, you certainly need to catch up on your reading!

"Yure's Truely"

By Winston Norman

Florence, Italy.

Mr. Roosevelt,
White House, U. S. A.
Dear Mr. Roosevelt:

Do you remember them old days when you & me diden't go to Grammar School to-gether. If so, you will remember how us boys use to get in them silly fights, where we was scairt to hit each other, so we just bragged about what would happen if we did.

Well, Mr. President, that there is Europe in a nut-shell. Europe is just a lot of little boys making Faces at each other with a chip on their shoulder, and all of them hoping to Gosh that the chip won't fall off.

Now Mr. President, if you will let your mind reach back to when you was about 10 years old, you will remember how they was always a Bully in every school, he liked to make us little boys bow down & lick dirt. That's what begun all the epizootics of fights, becauze us little boys was so mad that we took it out on each other whilst waiteing till we got big enuff to clean up on the School Bully.

Well, France begun it in Europe's grammer school. France was stronger than Germany after the war- they made them lick dirt & they woludent let them have no boats or soldiers to play with.

The result is, Germany has growed up kind of funny, just waiteing for the day to get even, & fealing mean enuff to take a poak at any-body.

Now France is sorry they was a bully in them days after the war, Mr. President, becauze they did not keep growing as fast as they expected. Germany has ketched up to them as far as musale goes, and Europe will maybe have a new Bully as soon as school lets out.

Yure's truely,
WINSTON NORMAN.

Bible Text: "Cast thy burden upon the Lord and He shall sustain thee."—Psalm 55:22. Suggested by the Rev. Dr. George A. Martin, Superintendent of the Methodist Churches of Springfield District.

A Shakespeare Triumph

The Human Side of the News

By Edwin C. Hill

Broadway has a new play which is being acclaimed as one of the hits of the season. The play is by one William Shakespeare, who did considerable play writing after leaving Stratford-on-Avon some three hundred years ago.

Edwin C. Hill

Perhaps we better compromise on the phrase "a new play." Forgotten is the better word because "King Richard II" has been forgotten by Broadway for an extensive period of time.

It requires a considerable amount of research to discover that New York last saw it 59 years ago, with Edwin Booth in the title role and two actors, named respectively, Maurice Barrymore and John Drew, in minor parts.

The immortal Booth added nothing to his stature or reputation by an indifferent performance of the role of Richard. But today a young Englishman, Maurice Evans, is being acclaimed as one of the great actors of the time because of his portrayal of the first English king to abdicate under pressure.

Our Mr. Evans is in his early thirties and has been seen around as Romeo to Katherine Cornell's Juliet before he essayed the role of Napoleon in "St. Helena" at the beginning of this theatrical season. Mr. Evans did a fine job as the Corsican. Good notices couldn't keep the play going.

GENEROUS PRAISE

Therefore, with New York showing a remarkable warmness for John Gielgud's work in another of Mr. Shakespeare's bits called "Hamlet," Mr. Evans' thoughts and talents turned to the drama which concerns the son of the Black Prince.

Richard lived but 33 years, from 1367 to 1400. He was a spendthrift and an arbitrary young man who found occasion to say that the laws of England were what came from his mouth.

Shakespeare followed history very closely in his play, and Maurice Evans follows Shakespeare very closely in his reading. The result is that the hard-boiled reviewers of New York have been hard put for adjectives in praise of the drama and its performance.

I sat enthralled in the packed theater and watched the story unfold, the story of a conflict between youth and age, the story of the abdication of a king, the story of a man who had a child for a bride. The last curtain fell and the sharp air of Broadway brought me back to 1937 from the spell of 1397.

REAL INSPIRATION

I reached for early editions of the morning newspapers and read over the headlines—headlines about the Supreme Court, the Duke of Windsor, and the marriages of children.

The stage had forgotten "King Richard II", and I imagine most of the lovers of Shakespeare had neglected to read the play. I know I had, but I made amends that very night. Until far too late I sat up to drink in words such as these:

"But grief make one hour ten . . . There is no virtue like Necessity . . . Then England's ground, farewell; sweet soil adieu: My mother, and my nurse, that bears me yet! Where'er I wander, boast of this I can though banish'd, yet a true-born Englishman . . . Pray God we may make haste and come too late.

"Where words are scarce they are seldom spent in vain, for they breathe truth that breathe their words in pain.

"The setting sun, and music at the close, as the last taste of sweets, is sweetest last . . . Small showers last long, but sudden storms are short . . . I live with bread like you, feel want, taste grief, need friends—subjected thus, how can you say to me, I am a king?"

And finally there was a line in Aumerle's plea for pardon from Henry which ran, "may my tongue cleave to my roof within my mouth."

Where had I heard that before? Ah, yes, Daniel Webster's reply to Hayne: "May my tongue cleave to the roof of my mouth."

A Warning to Congress

By Hon. Henry F. Ashurst

United States Senator from Arizona and Chairman of the Senate Committee on the Judiciary.
In a Speech in the Senate on January 29, 1937. Reprinted from the Congressional Record.

Mr. President, I do not know that I should tax my strength this morning in discussing the asserted power of the Supreme Court of the United States to declare acts of Congress beyond the powers of Congress further than to say that IN ALL TYRANNICAL GOVERNMENTS, no matter what may be their form—whether an oligarchy, or, as Thomas Jefferson said, 148 men—no monarch, no tyrant makes any progress whatever unless and until he seizes in his hands the Legislative, the Executive and the Judicial powers.

Monarchs in Europe—some may call them "tyrants"—would be effectively hampered in their efforts unless they held in one hand, in one magistracy, the Legislative, the Executive and the Judicial powers.

So the first thing a wise, prudent, scheming, subtle monarch in Europe does, if he wants complete control, is to seize Legislative, Executive and Judicial powers.

* * *

Let me say that I have no sympathy with attempts to whittle or to chisel, by indirection, circumlocution and periphrasis and "House-That-Jack-Built" methods IN ORDER TO ACQUIRE POWER. Let us manfully stand up and say, "Mr. President, we ought to have more power. We need more power. THE WAY TO OBTAIN IT IS BY CONSULTING THE STATES.

In my judgment the way to reach the desired objective is by bold frankness, by asking THE PEOPLE OF THE STATES to ratify the necessary amendments.

* * *

If we think the Supreme Court should not exercise the power of passing upon laws, let us say so by amendment.

In the long run there will be niches in the Hall of Time and Places in the record of history, for men who act directly in that way; but there will be found no niches, no place in the record of history, nor will there be a glowing tribute on the page of any history book for a Congress which, by such methods as I have indicated, TRIES TO DO INDIRECTLY THAT WHICH IT CANNOT DO DIRECTLY.

That's That -:- By Bruce Gustin

When the Constitutional Convention, over which Washington presided, assembled in Philadelphia he predicted "If we do not write a Constitution in ink, we will write one in blood." A Constitution was written in ink. It has endured for almost 150 years. It has been amended 21 times. It can be amended again whenever public sentiment favors another change.

The American people are a nation of hero-worshippers. Often they are extravagant in idolizing a public figure who has caught their fancy. But there has been less exaggeration in the worship of Washington than of any other public hero. And none ever has been so widely honored. Fred Taylor Wilson, in his latest book, "Our Constitution and Its Makers" (Fleming S. Revell Co.), says that "Today every State in America, but Wyoming and Delaware, and every country in Europe has a street, a village, a town, a city or a county named after him."

Wilson's book is a valuable and timely contribution to a better understanding of the Constitution. To understand this immortal document it is important to have a clear picture of the events leading up to and surrounding its adoption. And it is essential to know the men who wrote it and brought about its adoption.

That Washington was six feet two inches in height, weighed 210 pounds and wore size 14 shoes may not be important. These facts only show he was a big man physically. That he bought "a hogshead and a barrel of punch, 35 gallons of wine, 43 gallons of strong cider, and dinner for all his friends" in a campaign in a district where there were only a few hundred voters shows a knowledge of the practical side of politics. Humanizing our heroes does not belittle them.

Considering President Roosevelt's theory that "most Americans believe our form of government does not prohibit action (by the federal government) on behalf of those who need help," it is important to know that AT THE TIME THE CONSTITUTION WAS ADOPTED THE NATION WAS IN THE THROES OF A DEPRESSION AS SEVERE AS THE ONE FROM WHICH WE NOW ARE EMERGING.

Wilson mentions in "Our Constitution and Its Makers" that Washington, then rated probably the richest man in the country, "was compelled to borrow $2500 from a Maryland friend to satisfy urgent creditors before he went to New York to assume the office of President."

And the government was so hard up Washington sold his claim for $64,000 expenses incurred during the war for $3200 cash. If the framers of the Constitution had intended that the federal government should undertake to provide for the economic security of all the people, the instrument they adopted in the midst of a depression surely would have made specific provision for that.
